U.N. Blocks Soviets On Reunification

Vote To Take Up Western Plan For Germany

PARIS, Nov. 13—(AP)—Over strenuous Russian objections, the United Nations general assembly voted today to take up a western big three plan intended as the first step in the reunification of Germany.

The vote was 47 to 6 with 2 abstentions.

By its vote, the assembly rejected Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky's claim that the German problem was none of its business.

The assembly also beat back a Russian attempt to force off the agenda long-pending Nationalist Chinese charges of Soviet aggression in China.

Big Three Plan

The big three plan, as explained by U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, calls for the establishment of an impartial, international commission to investigate whether conditions in both West Germany and Communist-ruled East Germany are suitable for holding elections.

Both Acheson and Eden said it was designed to lead to eventual unity of Germany, and was introduced at the request of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

"I beg to differ," Vishinsky said in a slashing attack on the plan today. France, Britain and the United States want "first and foremost to perpetuate the dismemberment of Germany," he said.

Vishinsky claimed that establishment of such a commission would violate both the charter of the United Nations and the Potsdam agreements.

He also said it was "an insult to the German people to present them with demands which are usually made to such backward countries as Morocco and Tunis."

Angry Tones

The Soviet foreign minister, in angry tones, insisted that the problem of Germany should be considered not by the U.N. general assembly but in the council of foreign ministers, made up of the foreign ministers of the United States, Russia, Britain and France. Russia has a veto there.

Vishinsky was backed by Moshe Sharet of Israel, who claimed that "the spirit of Nazism" was reviving in Germany and that the big three proposals were "morally and legally unjustified."

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jeb said the plan had the support of West Germany and urged its acceptance as "a preliminary step which might lead to the holding of elections throughout Germany."

Reservations For Follies Seats Start

Seat reservations started today for Thursday's performance of the "Follies of 1951," sponsored annually by the Junior Service Guild of Marion County. Seats will be reserved tomorrow for the Friday night show.

Nearly 200 local residents will take part in the show, proceeds from which will be used by the Guild to sponsor welfare and civic work in the city and county.

Tickets for the two performances may be obtained at the Palace Theater boxoffice until curtain time. Exchange tickets are also available at the National City Bank and Gallahers Store.

The show will start at 8:15 Thursday and Friday nights. A dress rehearsal has been scheduled for late Wednesday night at the theater after the evening's movies have been shown.

Costumes have arrived from New York and the costume committee have nearly completed wardrobe fittings for the cast.

Says It Must Be Either Taft or Ike

Eisenhower Will Accept If Drafted, Pulliam Predicts in C. of C. Talk

By WILLIAM R. DIEM
City Editor, Marion Star

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower will never announce himself as a candidate for president, but will accept the nomination if drafted, Marion Chamber of Commerce members and guests were told last night by Eugene C. Pulliam of Indianapolis, noted newspaper publisher and world traveler.

A leader in Indiana Republican circles, Pulliam based this prediction on a talk with Eisenhower during a five-week tour of Europe and the Far East which began in September.

He believes Eisenhower will never discuss politics while in uniform but predicted that when his job as NATO commandor is done, he will make a public statement to the effect that I have never shirked my duty, always done what I thought I should, and if I should be nominated for the presidency, I will run."

He said Eisenhower assailed as a "crazy rumor" the report that he will run against Taft for the presidency if Taft is nominated by the Republican party.

"Every time I read that rumor, it makes me mad," Pulliam quoted Eisenhower.

High Regard For Taft

"I have never said a word about that man, never an unkind word. I regard him with the highest respect," the general told Pulliam.

Pulliam said Eisenhower believes our greatest danger today is not the Russian armies, but the "terrible war hysteria in the United States. We're spending ourselves into bankruptcy. We must get back on an even keel economically."

He said the general believes "there is no security without solvency, no security without freedom."

He hailed as the perfect slogan the one picked by Eisenhower for his NATO army; "Vigilance is the Eternal Price of Freedom."

It is Pulliam's belief that either Taft or Eisenhower would make a great president.

"We've got to have one of them," he told his audience. "We can't take another four years of the fumbling leadership in Washington."

Annual C. of C. Banquet

Pulliam was speaker at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet, held in the ballroom of Hotel Harding. Some 210 Chamber members, their wives and guests attended.

Publisher of the Indianapolis News and Star and a number of other newspapers in the Middle West, Pulliam retains an active interest in the reportorial side of newspaper work. With his wife, Nina, who is associated with him in his newspaper and radio enterprises, he has visited 61 foreign countries in the last five years, acting as a roving correspondent for his newspapers and others using the news service of the North American Newspaper Alliance.

He returned from his travels with the belief that "the United States is the last free country in all the world."

"Totalitarian governments have failed the people everywhere," he said. "All the 'isms'—communism, nazism, socialism—they're all the same, and all end up as police states."

He told his audience of six men who have had a lot to do with

Says Chinese Intentions Now Clear

Want Buffer Zone Across Korea To End Shooting, General Says

MUNSAN, Korea, Nov. 13 —(AP)—An Allied spokesman said Communist truce negotiators "made it even more clear today" they want to create a buffer zone across Korea to end the shooting now.

The spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, said this "repudiates their earlier statement" that fighting would not end until an armistice is signed. The United Nations command wants to create a cease-fire buffer zone only after other terms of an armistice are agreed on.

The Reds outlined their position in a five-hour session at Panmunjom while Allied artillery shells burst on hills less than two miles away. The white phosphorous and high explosive shells bracketed the town.

Another U.N. spokesman said the Reds complained an Allied plane violated the Panmunjom neutral area Saturday. He conceded there was some truth in the complaint.

Lt. Col. Norman B. Edwards, Allied liaison officer, said a propeller driven plane flew over the edge of the 1,000 yard security area surrounding the village, but turned away immediately.

Game Supply Plentiful

Good Hunting Seen When Season Opens Thursday

The hunting season opening Thursday, gives promise of being one of the biggest and most productive in Marion County history.

O. H. Neimeyer of Prospect, Marion County game protector, said today the supply of rabbit and pheasant was plentiful. He also said the early sale of hunting licenses was topping all other pre-opening day sales in this county.

Persons requiring non-resident licenses still are apparently confused on the type licenses they need, Mr. Neimeyer said. Any person not being a resident of Ohio for at least a year must purchase a $15 non-resident license. Resident licenses cost $2.25.

Begins at 9 a.m. Thursday

The season will get under way Thursday at 9 a.m. for rabbits and pheasant.

Hunting hours will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The daily bag limit for rabbit will be four and for pheasant two. The possession limit for pheasant will be four after the opening day but the field bag limit will remain the same. The pheasant season runs through Nov 30 while the rabbit season expires Jan. 1.

Mr. Neimeyer said no traps for fur-bearing animals should be placed before Thursday. No traps must be set for rabbits, he said. The game protector also said that trappers and coon hunters, in the fields from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. will be required to carry a continuous white light visible for a quarter of a mile at all times.

Respect Property

Mr. Neimeyer urged hunters to respect other people's property during the season. He asked hunters not to enter farmlands without first obtaining the owner's written permission. "There is more land in this county closed to hunting than ever before," he said. "I hope hunters will not be so foolish as to tell the owners that they must have their land posted." To be safe, the hunter

Too Much "Brass" In Washington?

Senate Report Says Area Crowded With Bigwigs, Civilians

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—(AP)—The Senate preparedness subcommittee complained today that the Washington area is overloaded with "upper brass" — high-ranking military officers — and armed forces civilian employes.

"It is obvious that the defense establishment is tending toward an administrative top-heaviness that is inefficient, wasteful and dangerous," the armed services group said in a report.

"Unless the trend is halted now we could, in the classic phrase, wind up with the fighting forces composed of 'all chiefs and no Indians.'"

Generals Abundant

The report said there now are almost as many generals, admirals and defense establishment civilians stationed at the Pentagon and in the general Washington area as there were during World War II peak strength when the armed forces were three and a half times their present size.

In an accompanying letter to Secretary of Defense Lovett, chairman Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) called the situation startling and asked for recommendations to remedy it. There was no immediate comment from the Pentagon.

The committee's study showed that last Sept. 30 there were 361 general and flag officers and 91,081 defense establishment civilians stationed in the Washington area. On April 30, 1945—just before the end of the war in Europe—there were 397 general and flag officers and 98,071 civilians.

In 1945 the armed forces totaled more than 12,000,000 men and women. The present strength is around 3,500,000.

Referring to the present situation, the report said:

"The high concentration of 'upper brass' is apparent to the most casual observer of the Washington scene. Even a noonday stroller down any street in the mid-section of the city is likely to encounter at least a few officers of general or flag rank."

Above Captain

Flag rank in the Navy is anything above captain. General rank in the other services is anything above colonel.

Upper Sandusky Girl Candidate For OSU Queen

Miss Rosemary Ellis of Upper Sandusky is one of ten contestants for homecoming queen at Ohio State University, International News Service reported today.

Other contestants are Elizabeth Adams of East Palestine, Betsy Riddle of Orient, Gwenn York of Greenfield, Marlene Marcus of Indianapolis, Ind., and five Columbus girls, Maralyn Davies, Susie Keelye, Sally Moore, Barbara Reed and Mell Swerdlow.

Students vote Wednesday on their choice for queen. The winner will be announced Friday and will hold court Saturday at the Ohio State-Illinois football game.

RFC Probe Near Windup

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—(AP)—A federal grand jury was authoritatively described today as nearing the end of its long investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

An official source who declined to be named told a reporter the grand jury probably will wind up its work "within a few weeks now." He gave no hint as to what it might do.

The panel has the options of (A) returning indictments, (B) declining to indict, or (C) filing a progress report to serve as the basis of further investigation by it or a successor grand jury.

Two Senate members had raised question in recent weeks concerning progress of the eight-months-old study.

Like a scene from a monstrous junkyard are these streamliner coaches, part of the four rear cars which were partially telescoped by the impact of the diesel of the City of San Francisco, fast passenger train on the Union Pacific which ripped into the sister streamliner, City of Los Angeles during a blinding snowstorm at a Wyuta siding, five miles west of Evanston, Wyo. yesterday. The observation car of the train was split right in half. As bystanders look at the twisted mass of cars, bulldozers are hacking a road to the tracks from a nearby highway. The City of Los Angeles halted at the siding because wet, sticky snow obscured a block signal.

Galion Police Search For Gun In Shooting

Discover Boy Shot Accidentally By Playing Companion

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov. 13—Several patrolmen of the Galion police department were searching Whetstone creek, here, this afternoon, in an effort to find the revolver which accidentally discharged and seriously injured six-year-old Stephen Freeman.

The boy is in "fair" condition at City Hospital where he was admitted Sunday afternoon for treatment for a gun shot wound which he received while playing with Frederick Spears, 14, a neighbor. Stevie sustained chest wound with injuries to the spleen and left kidney from the bullet that entered his body below the heart.

At first, the case baffled police who were investigating the shooting accident which occurred in a deep gully just off the South State road near the Grove avenue intersection. It was believed that a stray bullet had hit the boy, and that it had been fired from close range, possibly by someone who was shooting at a target in the vicinity. The gully is about 30 feet deep, and is thickly wooded. The two boys were swinging on grape vines.

Tells of Shooting

Fritzie Spears first told police that they were going up the steep hill to his bicycle, and that he heard a shot and then heard Stevie Freman call out "Wait Up." He said that he wanted the boy to wait while he went for help, but when Stevie wouldn't wait, they walked to the top of the hill. Fritzie then placed Stevie on the carriage of his bicycle and took him toward home A neighbor, Mrs. Chester Sherman had been told by Mrs. Freemen, mother of Stevie, to "keep an eye" on Stevie because she had to be gone from home for a few minutes. Mrs. Sherman was calling Stevie when she saw the boys coming toward her. Frightened by the sight of the wounded boy, she called Mr. Sherman who rushed him to City Hospital. The boy was then removed to a physician's office for X-ray and then taken back to the hospital.

Surgery was performed Sunday evening at the hospital by a Mansfield specialist, assisted by two Galion physicians. He was given blood transfusions in an effort to save his life.

Mossadegh in Final Try at Mediation

WASHINGTON, Nov 13—(AP)—Iran's premier Mohammed Mossadegh, heartened by promise of an international loan, arranged a final day of conferences with American mediators who are trying to solve his country's oil dispute with Britain.

A breakdown of current talks by nightfall appeared possible unless Iran or Britain backed down.

The 50-nation international monetary fund was reported willing to step into the picture by granting the near bankrupt Iranian government an emergency credit of $8,750,000.

18 Arrested In Police Raid Plead Guilty

4 Others Enter Not Guilty Pleas At Arraignment

Twenty-two persons arrested in the police and Liquor Department raids Sunday morning were arraigned in Municipal Court today before Judge W. Dexter Hazen.

Tat Bolton of 908 Kenton Ave., at whose home 18 persons were arrested at 2 a.m. Sunday, was fined $100 and costs on each of two charges. He pleaded guilty to charges of keeping a place where the sale of liquor was permitted in violation of the law, and keeping a place where gambling was permitted.

Bolton's bartender, William Mason of 908 Kenton Ave., charged with selling intoxicants in violation of the law, also pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs.

Held In Prison

Bolton and Mason are being held in City Prison pending payment of their fines, police said.

Sixteen persons arrested at Bolton's establishment on charges of gambling and frequenting a disorderly house pleaded guilty and were fined $15 and costs each.

John Henry Hill of 218 Senate St., charged with keeping a place where intoxicants were sold in violation of the law, pleaded not

First Clue in 3-Day Hunt

Lost Minneapolis Boys' Caps Found In River

BULLETIN

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 13—(AP)—Two caps belonging to two or three missing boys, were fished from the Mississippi River near a dam this morning. Police Capt. Kenneth Moore said the caps had been positively identified. Capt. Moore said the caps were first noticed by a workman at a dam in North Minneapolis. Moore said they were taken from the river near the dam and identified by Kenneth Klein, father of the boys, Kenneth Jr., 8; David, 6, and Daniel, 4. The dam is downstream from a park where the boys had gone to play Saturday.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 13—(AP)—A frantic hunt for three small boys, missing since Saturday, today overshadowed the workaday pursuits of the more than half a million Minneapolis residents.

Kenneth Klein Jr., 8, and his two brothers, David, 6, and Daniel, 4, simply dropped from sight, leaving only wraithlike traces.

The boys left their northside home Saturday afternoon to play in a park four blocks away. The Mississippi River is only a short distance beyond.

Kenneth Klein, the boys' father, called police when they didn't come home Saturday night. A routine notice was radioed to squad cars. No results.

Police Chief Tom Jones Sunday called out 100 Civil Defense auxiliary police to aid his re-

3 Missing In Crash of UP Streamliners

Worst in 30 Years, Railman Says Of Disaster in Blizzard

EVANSTON, Wy., Nov. 13—(AP)—Benumbed rescue crews today continued to probe the shattered vitals of two passenger trains in which 20 or more persons died during a snowstorm-whipped collision yesterday.

An early morning check of the morgue in this small southwestern Wyoming community showed 14 of the 20 bodies identified. Three persons are listed as missing. Eight remain in serious condition, with scores of others treated for minor hurts and released.

The City of San Francisco, sleek Union Pacific luxury train, roared out of the swirling blizzard and slammed into the rear of the halted City of Los Angeles. The collision sounded to one survivor "like someone screaming."

The impact crumpled portions of the two streamliners. Bodies and parts of bodies were just "lying around."

Union Pacific officials have advanced no reason for the mishap.

Mainline service was restored during the night, with the first train through the eastbound Pony Express, headed for Denver and Kansas City. The train, normally leaving Ogden, Utah, at 7:10 p.m. (MST), was held there until about 9 p.m., then passed the wreck scene at about 11 p.m.

Back To Normal

Union Pacific officials said schedules should be back to normal by this afternoon.

The City of San Francisco was thundering across the snowswept, rolling desert about three miles west of this small southwestern Wyoming town, 80 miles northeast of Salt Lake City, it plowed its way through a snowstorm which already had dumped eight inches of snow on the ground. Ten minutes ahead ran the City of Los Angeles. Both were behind their schedules. The 200 odd passengers aboard both trains were getting ready for lunch.

Then the City of Los Angeles halted on the line for a block signal. At 11:32 a.m. (MST) the City of San Francisco hit the last car of the Los Angeles with a thunderous rending of metal. The three unit Diesel power plant of the second train went through the last car like a plowshare and crushed four other cars. All cars of the second train leaped off the tracks but remained upright.

Thomas E. Sharp, owner of radio station KFSD in San Diego, was sitting in a compartment of the City of San Francisco. He was drinking coffee.

"The coffee flew out of my hand and the conductor flew into the room," Sharp reported. He explained that the conductor was standing in the aisle outside his doorway.

Terrific Roar

Alex Henetz of Cheyenne, Wyo. a postal clerk, was riding in a coach three cars back of the San Francisco power unit. "Everything was running as usual when there suddenly was a terrific roar and a sound like someone screaming," he said. "I guess that was the steel being torn apart."

Henetz said he rushed outside and helped a woman from the top of the shattered wreckage. "How she was thrown out I'll never know," he said.

A Bible also was thrown into the snow beside the carnage. A woman picked it up. Nearby lay a "zoom-ray gun," the toy of some child.

The snow let up as rescue operations began. It was a foot deep near the wreck; drifts nearby were deeper.

The snow began at nightfall. Workmen rigged floodlights. They continued their work in sub-freezing temperatures.

Reports of the dead began coming out of Wyuta, the Wyoming-Utah border community which was the precise site of the wreck. Five were reported dead; then eight, then 12.

Bodies Mangled

Charles Wirbin, fire chief in Utah's Davis County, drove an ambulance to the scene. "Parts of legs and arms were lying around. They had to jack up a freight car

Galion Firm, Another Plan Consolidation

GALION, Nov. 13—(UP)—Directors of Hercules Steel Products Corp. here have entered into a contract with the Ohio Electric Manufacturing Co. of Cleveland, to merge the two enterprises, it was revealed today.

The contract is subject to approval by stockholders of the Ohio Electric Manufacturing Co., but the latter's directors own or control over 70 per cent of the company's stock.

Hercules makes dump truck bodies, hydraulic hoists, metallic burial vaults, lime spreaders, and, through its Star Manufacturing Division, a general line of restaurant equipment. Ohio Electric makes lifting magnets, electric motors, electric hoists and nail making machines.

Stockholders of Ohio Electric will meet shortly to vote upon the consolidation.

OSU Trustees OK Relaxing Speaker Rule

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—(AP)—The trustees of Ohio State University yesterday approved President Howard L. Bevis' relaxation of the speaker screening rule, but took no action on a more lenient substitute proposed by students.

The rule originally required all campus speakers to be approved in advance by Bevis. However, the president last week exempted three classes of speakers under certain conditions.

Porter May of Findlay, who presented the more lenient plan approved by the Student Senate lobby committee, said the trustees did not seem to favor it.

May said the trustees felt the student plan "does not fully protect the integrity of the university and is not fully conducive to their interpretation of national security."

The student proposal would allow any campus organization to invite any speaker, without screening, to meetings not open to the public.

For public meetings, the students suggested, Dr. Bevis should decide whether speakers' views were "controversial" or "non-controversial." The students defined "controversial" views as those that advocate communism or overthrow of the government by violence.

Under the student plan, if Dr. Bevis decided a proposed speaker's ideas were "controversial," the sponsoring group would be required to give equal opportunity to a speaker with opposite views.

Work on New "Case of The Missing Hogs"

Three more hogs are missing in Marion or Hardin County. This time, authorities know the owner of the animals but have found no trace of the swine, in contrast to an earlier incident in which they had the hogs and couldn't find the owner.

The three were part of a 30-head purchase made yesterday at the Producers Livestock sale by Harvey Albright of Elgin, O. He loaded the swine on a farm truck and left Marion traveling west on Route 30.

When the truck arrived at Kenton, a pedestrian told Mr. Albright the tailgate of the truck was down. An investigation disclosed the gate and three swine were missing. Mr. Albright returned to Marion searching along the highway but no trace of the animals or the gate could be found. The Marion County sheriff and Hardin County authorities were notified of the missing animals and are attempting to locate them.

It is the second group of missing swine in Marion County during the past week. Thirty-five animals were returned to their owner, Louis Anderson of near Meeker, from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stone, also of near Meeker over the weekend.

The hogs had been "boarding" at the Stone home for a week without their absence being noticed by Mr. Anderson.

Strike at Neil House In Columbus Idles 300

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—(AP)—Some 300 service employes at the Neil House hotel—Columbus' second largest and an important convention center—were ordered out on strike early today.

The Hotel and Restaurant Employes and Bartenders Union (AFL) said it called the walkout as a climax to an organizing drive.

H. L. Ludwig, hotel manager, said it was too early to determine the full effect of the walkout, but managers of other hotels had promised to send help, and the Neil House would continue to operate. The hotel has 650 rooms, all of which are occupied.

DELAY ELECTION PROBE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—(UP)—The Senate elections committee has re-scheduled an investigation into the 1950 Ohio senatorial campaign for Nov. 26. Originally set to begin next Monday, the delay was granted to give John T. Moore, Washington attorney, more time to complete his investigation into the race between Sen. Robert A. ELECTION VIOLENCE

MANILA, Nov. 13—(AP)—Nine Filipinos were killed in flaring election day violence today. A total of 104 have been killed since mid-September when campaigning started for the election of nine senators, all provincial governors and municipal officials.

SHOOTS COACH, SELF

ATLANTA, Nov. 13—(AP)—Police clammed up today on why a sheriff's deputy shot a 23-year-old basketball coach and then ended his own life outside a high school gymnasium last night. The dead were W. D. Martin, 38, Fulton County deputy, and James R. Phillips, high school teacher and coach at Alpharetta, a community of less than 1,000 about 27 miles northeast of Atlanta.

Hospital Building Group To Meet

A meeting of the building committee for the new Marion General Hospital will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow night at the Marion Power Shovel Co. offices.

Reports of the progress made toward selecting a hospital site and progress made by the architect on the building plans are expected to be heard.

A bond issue of $1,700,000 for the new hospital was approved by voters in the county a year ago. The bonds have not yet been advertised for sale.

Members of the committee include Harvey T. Gracely, George Probst, Forest D. Loudenslager, Dale Lawrence, James Fields, Clyde Hinamon, Wilbur Highland, J. Malcolm Strelitz and Mayor Harold F. Robinson, chairman and ex-officio member.

shaping the destiny of people all over the world. They were Gen. Ridgway, Gen. MacArthur, Gen. Eisenhower, Prime Minister Nehru of India, the late Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Kahn of Pakistan, and Pope Pius.

He reported Ridgway was doing a splendid job in Korea and Japan. He has had a hard job, because MacArthur, whom he succeeded as supreme commander in the far east, "was a god to those people."

He blamed "this Korean mess, which we could have avoided," on the "stupidities of the State Department." He believes the fighting could have been avoided if Chiang Kai-shek had been kept in China.

Tribute To MacArthur

He described Gen. MacArthur as having "the greatest mind of any man living today. He has a broad, tolerant concept of democracy and government."

Pulliam voiced the belief that because of MacArthur's fair, democratic Christian treatment of the Japanese, World War II will go down in history as the war in which the "conquerors came in and applied the Golden Rule . . . introducing the concept of life based on the Golden Rule into the Orient."

He called this "the greatest contribution any man has made to the world in our time.

View of MacArthur Ouster

He believes MacArthur was removed as commander because of intervention of the British government.

He said the British made a deal with Red China to recognize her if the Chinese would accept the British pound sterling as the medium of exchange in China. When the pound ran into trouble in China, the British commissioner came to MacArthur in Japan and asked that the pound be made the medium of exchange there, Pulliam said. MacArthur told the commissioner he couldn't do that, and the commissioner threatened, "General, if you don't agree, we're going to have you removed." MacArthur laughed then, but later was removed as commander.

"The British foreign office is running the State Department today," Pulliam charged.

Says Nehru Out of Place

Nehru, the publisher said, is a sincere disciple of Ghandi, but has no business running the Indian government.

The Indian prime minister is giving us the "royal double cross," he said. "On the one hand, he pats Russia on the back, saying Red China should be admitted to the U.N., refusing to attend the Japanese peace treaty conference. On the other hand, he treats Communists in India more ruthlessly than they are treated anywhere in the world."

The world lost a great leader when Premier Liaquat Ali Kahn of Pakistan was assassinated, he believes. He was slain because he was tolerant, he said. Ali Kahn was trying to reach agreement with Nehru on the disputed territory of Kashmir, which India "grabbed" with her army.

He thinks the U.N.'s fate will rest on what it does about Kashmir. Three U.N. commissions have found for Kashmir in investigations of the dispute, but nothing has been done about it because the West won't back them up, afraid India will go communist if crossed by the West. "India hasn't a Chinaman's chance of going communist," he said.

He called Pope Plus a "miraculous man," and said that under his leadership the Catholics were holding the line against the Reds in Europe.

Others on Banquet Program

Toastmaster for the dinner was Henry A. Mickley, immediate past president of the Marion Chamber of Commerce.

The invocation was spoken by Rev. R. W. Faulkner, pastor of the Calvary EUB Church. Singing of "America" was led by Leonard Young.

During the dinner, music was played by a trio composed of Mrs. John Lacey, piano, Steve Lacey, cello, and Miss Wilma Gnebel, violin. They also presented two numbers at the start of the program.

The toastmaster introduced these guests at the speakers' table: Mrs. Pulliam, Mrs. Carl Knirk, Mrs. Faulkner, Mrs. Mickley; Roy D. Moore of Canton, president and publisher of Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., and Mrs. Moore; R. D. Hager of Akron, general superintendent of the industrial products division, B. F. Goodrich Co.; Joseph Beardon, manager of the Marion Goodrich plant, and Mrs. Beardon; Kenneth Miller, general manager of the Universal Cooler Division of Tecumseh Products Corp., and Mrs. Miller; Merle Thompson, plant manager of Marion Industries, division of Motor Products Corp., and Mrs. Thompson; and Robert Sprouse, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The retiring C. of C. directors were introduced. They are Dr. O. C. Alspach, C. O. Brown, Henry Krigbaum, Harvey T. Gracely.

New officers were also introduced. They are M. Paul Hunt and Edgar Barnhart, vice presidents; Francis B. Huber, treasurer; Floyd H. Cornely, assistant treasurer; H. E. Webster, secretary, and Jack Lautenslager, assistant secretary.

New directors introduced were Dr. F. T. Merchant, John J. Ryan, Julian Walker, Leonard Young.

Mr. Mickley then introduced the new Chamber of Commerce president, Carl H. Knirk, who in turn introduced the speaker.

Offer "Clinic" In Wrapping Gifts

As a service to those who are interested in artistic gift wrapping, the Business and Professional Women's Club will sponsor a "clinic" on the subject Wednesday night. It will be in cooperation with a local office equipment company, held at the State St. School at 8 o'clock. Mrs. R. L. Mann of Springfield will be the stylist in charge. Anyone interested may attend, it was stated by Mrs. William Barnhouse, club president. Included in the "school" for gift wrapping and tieing will be instruction on "a dozen different ways to tie a bow," selection of the right type of paper for a particular gift, and a booklet will be distributed giving information on the making of ornamental accessories and suggestions for Christmas.

Cairo Guards Against Anti-British Rioting

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 13—(AP)—Nervous Egyptian government relaxed its "no demonstration" ban to permit expected thousands to parade against the British today and tomorrow, but officials decreed the marchers must be silent—no shouting.

Police were put on emergency alert as Egypt today marked her "national struggle" day—anniversary of full independence from Britain, and scheduled a giant mourning observance tomorrow for Egyptians killed in the last month of conflict with the British in the Suez Canal zone.

Ohio Chamber Set For 2-Day Session

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—(AP)—Baron Silvercruys, Belgian ambassador to the United States, will address a luncheon tomorrow opening the 58th annual Ohio Chamber of Commerce convention.

Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn), a former medical missionary in the Far East, will speak at a banquet Thursday.

WHAT NEXT?

MUNSAN, KOREA, Nov. 13—(AP)—Shakespeare has popped up as a new issue in Korean truce negotiations. A North Korean general protested today that an American general did not quote Shakespeare appropriately.

Dixie Bound To No Party, Byrnes Says

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 13—(AP)—Gov. James E. Byrnes of South Carolina declared today the South owes it loyalty to no political party or candidate in next year's presidential election.

The governor told a news conference that he is opposed to the renomination of President Truman and would support either Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga) or Sen. Harry Byrd (D-Va) for the presidency.

He added that "true Americans" owe their loyalty to their country rather than to any political party or leader.

And he made it clear that he believes a southern revolt against Truman should not be judged on any basis of political loyalty.

Byrnes' statements were in direct answer to a plea from House speaker Sam Rayburn for southern Democrats to remain loyal to the Democratic nominee next year regardless of whom he might be.

Rayburn threw the southern governors' conference into a turmoil last night when he pleaded for party loyalty and also sharply criticized Republicans.

guilty at the arraignment today. He is being held in lieu of $300 bond.

Mrs. Bessie Mae Hill, 29, of 218 Senate St., charged with selling intoxicants in violation of the law, also pleaded not guilty. She is being held in lieu of $200 bond. Both were represented by Attorney Frank Wiedemann.

James Benjamin of 588 Grant St., charged with keeping a place and selling intoxicants in violation of the law, pleaded not guilty. He was released on $300 bond. He was represented by Attorney Edwin B. Spohn.

George Ash, 65, of 896 Kenton Ave., charged with keeping a place and selling intoxicants in violation of the law, pleaded not guilty. He was released on $300 bond. His attorney was William R. Martin.

All four defendants are scheduled to appear at a hearing Nov. 30 in Municipal Court.

Taft Shunning Pennsylvania Factional Fight

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—(AP)—Supporters indicated today Senator Taft (R-Ohio) will keep clear of an impending battle for control of Pennsylvania's 70-vote delegation to next year's GOP presidential nominating convention.

Although Taft's backers believe he can gain some support among these delegates in his bid for top spot on the ticket, they said that unless plans are changed his name will not be entered in the state's April 22 presidential primary.

Senator Duff (R-Pa) served notice yesterday that there is going to be "plenty of action in Pennsylvania at the proper time" in behalf of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. He wouldn't say, however, whether the general's name will go in the primary, where it could be entered without any action on the part of the candidate.

However, Senator Edward Martin (R-Pa) told reporters at a Harrisburg meeting also attended by Duff he doubts that Eisenhower will run.

I don't think he will want to give up his job in Europe," Martin said.

serves in one of the city's greatest manhunts. The volunteers combed the area for miles around the Klein home. They searched alleys, rang doorbells, found nothing.

Leads to River Bank

One resident reported seeing three small boys resembling Kenneth, David and Daniel sitting on a curbstone late Saturday. A tracking dog was taken to the spot. The dog followed a trail to the river bank. There the scent stopped.

Police cars carrying loud speakers patrolled the fringes of swampland to blare out the boys' names. No answer.

Squads plodded through warehouses of the river industrial district. Hollow echoes answered their shouts. Oily machinery instead of little boys' eyes reflected the flashlight beams. Truck parts were also scanned to no avail.

Yesterday, three Civil Air Patrol planes wheeled over the Mississippi but again no clues to Kenneth, David and Daniel. A police launch towing draglines turned up only waterlogged wood.

Police Chief Amazed

"It just doesn't seem reasonable those youngsters could disappear in the midst of thousands of people," said Chief Jones. "It isn't in the books, either, that all three of them would tumble into the river together. But that's what it looks like now."

The current at the spot reached by the dogs is very swift, he pointed out—"it would carry 'em away awful quick."

Capt. Kenneth Morre of the northside police, said he wasn't giving up—yet. He has ordered a box car by box car search of nearby railroad yards. And he planned an alert to rail men for a look at cars pulled from the yards for outgoing trains.

The motorboat and draglines were ordered back onto the river today.

Real Estate Boards Meet In Columbus

CINCINNATI, Nov. 13—(AP)—Dr. Arthur M. Weimer, dean of the Indiana University School of Business predicted an "excellent" year ahead for real estate values, investments and developments.

Dr. Weimer spoke at a meeting of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers held in connection with the 44th convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Dr. Weimer expressed belief the demand for housing would continue during 1952 and he listed two major factors which he said would aid the real estate business. One is the high level of personal income and a probably still further advance in that. The other is an easier mortgage market and indications of a relaxation of mortgage credit regulations.

On the other side, Dr. Weimer said there are factors which might retard the progress of real estate business.

sector. The attacks began before midnight. Shouting Reds kept coming through the darkness until 5 a.m. By 7:10 a.m., the Eighth Army said, the last Communist soldier had been driven back to his own lines.

The Kosong sector is 45 miles north of the 38th parale, and the northernmost point of the front.

It was the only action, aside from patrol clashes, reported in the Eighth Army's evening communique.

Auto, Truck Parts Stolen

Batteries, Windshield Wiper Blades Taken

Three more incidents in a series of thefts of parts from autos and trucks in Marion were reported by police today.

A battery was stolen from a truck owned by the Millard Hunt Co. while it was parked at their Oak St. yards some time last night.

Delmas Jenkins of 289 Bradford St. reported the theft of both windshield wiper blades from his automobile while it was parked at the rear of the Harding Hotel between 6:30 and 10 p. m. yesterday.

J. C. Miley, manager of the Whitcum Hide and Fuel Co. of 195 Quarry St. reported that someone entered their garage through an unlocked door and took a battery from a truck sometime Friday night.

The theft of four tires from the trunks of four 1950 and 1951 model Plymouths has also been reported during the past week. The cars were parked either on Oak St. or N. Main St. at the time.

In all more than $200 worth of auto and truck parts have been stolen.

Police Chief Tom Coon pointed out today that theft of a part from an auto or truck, however, small, is a felony and the penalty is the same as for stealing a whole auto. He said his department is pressing the investigation of the thefts.

Couple Mark 50th Wedding Anniversary

A family dinner Sunday afternoon was held in celebration of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Price of 748 Uncapher Ave. They were married in Green Camp Nov. 10, 1901.

Both were born in Jackson Township near Essex, O. Mrs. Price, the former Laura Kimber, was the daughter of John E. and Melinda Prettyman Kimber. Simpson and Delilah Pensley Price were Mr. Price's parents. They lived in Marion County since moving to Pleasant Township in their early youth.

Mr. and Mrs. Price have one daughter, Mrs. R. K. Michel of Waldo, and one grandson, Don K. Michel, a student at Ohio State University.

Mr. Price, who retired two years ago from the Marion Power Shovel Co., has two brothers, Chard Price of Chicago, Ill., and Robert Price of Leader St.

Mrs. Price's brother, Jesse Kimber, and his wife visited in Marion during the summer on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary, which was Aug. 16. They live in Anaheim, Calif.

Woman Held On Bad Check Charge

Mrs. Elizabeth Cozad, former Richwood grocery operator, is being held in the Marion County jail on a charge of passing a bad check.

She was arrested Friday at Richwood and is being held under a $250 bond pending a Municipal Court hearing. She is accused of passing a check in the amount of $135.53 at the Lee and Cudy wholesale grocery concern at 389 W. Center St.

The check was issued Oct. 8 in payment for a wholesale purchase for the Richwood grocery she operated until moving to Springfield recently. The grocery was sold at a Union County sheriff's sale last Saturday.

No date has been set for an arraignment, Sheriff LeRoy Retterer said.

Bus, Auto Collide At Intersection

A city bus driven by Clarence Chaney, 53, of 470 Davids St. and a car driven by J. E. Morrison, 46, of 960 W. Center St. collided at Bennett St. and Fiea Ave. at 10 a.m. yesterday. No one was injured.

The car was badly damaged in the collision. Police said both vehicles apparently drove into the intersection without stopping. The bus was carrying three passengers.

A car driven by Raymond Wallace Keeler, 56, of 670 S. Prospect St. collided with a car whose driver left the scene without reporting his name. The accident occurred on E. Center St. at 9:12 p.m. yesterday. Minor damage resulted.

Minor damage was reported at 8:18 p.m. yesterday when cars driven by John R. Turner, 26, of 544 Henry St. and Granville A. VanScoy, 26, of near Caledonia collided at Main St. and Center St., police said.

sident, Fritzie Spears told Captain George Cook, Monday afternoon, that a revolver had been found by Stevie Freeman, and that the gun had accidentally discharged when Fritzie tried to take it away from him. Fritzie told Captain Cook that he was so frightened that he didn't know what to do. Police said from his description, the gun was a Smith and Wesson .22 caliber revolver, and that it was made of blue steel. Fritzie said that he threw it in the creek because he was so frightened. Fritzie was afraid to tell his parents all about the accident when they questioned him late Sunday evening, but he told Captain Cook in a short time when the boy was questioned Monday afternoon.

Captain Cook said he is convinced the story is the truth. He holds the Spears boy was not to blame in the accident.

Stevie Freeman is the oldest of three children of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Freeman of Galion. Mr. Freeman is assistant to the president of Strathory Manufacturing Company.

Marion Woman's Parents Hurt In Auto Accident

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Raney of near Delaware, parents of Mrs. Paul Kohler of 222 Kensington Pl., were injured and another person killed in an automobile collision in Columbus Sunday morning. They are undergoing treatment in University Hospital, Columbus.

A severe laceration on Mrs. Raney's nose necessitated 70 stitches. She also suffered bruises on the face and chest. Mr. Raney, who was thrown from the car, suffered a severe forehead laceration, body bruises, and a chipped finger bone. Their conditions are reported as not serious.

The accident occurred Sunday at 10:30 a.m. as the couple were going into Columbus to church from their home on the Olentangy River Road in Delaware County. Their car collided with a car driven by Archie B. Ellis, 67, of Lancaster at the intersection of Lane Ave. and Olentangy River Road.

Mr. Ellis died in University Hospital five hours after the accident.

Both cars were 1951 Nash Ramblers and were demolished.

Mr. Raney is president of Ranco, Inc., a subsidiary of Nash-Kelvinator. His son-in-law, Mr. Kohler, is employed at the Swink Advertising Agency of Marion.

BPW Club Program Presented By Eastside Mothersingers

An opportunity to become acquainted with the work of a woman's musical group of the city was afforded the Business and Professional Women's Club Wednesday night. The Eastside Mothersingers, directed by Mrs. Warren Wise, presented a program at the BPW dinner meeting at Hotel Harding. Responsible for the meeting was the music committee of the club headed by Mrs. Ethyl Case. Mothersingers is the organization which has developed the musical interest of the Parent Teachers Association in many communities.

Four groups of numbers were presented by the guest entertainers, and Mrs. Wise gave a brief history of her chorus. Mrs. J. Paul Goebel was the accompanist.

Preceding dinner, the club collect was read by Mrs. Case. Mrs. William Barnhouse presided for business which included a report on a special financial project by Mrs. Virginia Greenwood. Honored at the president's table was a group which had made a special effort in the financial drive, and each was presented a corsage of golden chrysanthemums.

New members introduced were Mrs. Bess Stark, Mrs. Ruth Bindley, Mrs. Dolly Wetzel, Mrs. Helen Cleveland, and Miss Margaret Messenger, and each had a corsage as well as the guests who were presented by various club members, Mrs. Lewis Wills, Mrs. Catherine Harruff and Miss Grace Johnson. The centerpiece of the speaker's table was a decorative arrangement of chrysanthemums, flanked by groups of ornamental figurines.

Announcement was made of a special meeting Wednesday night this week, a gift wrapping and tieing clinic sponsored by the club at the State Street School. Time of the regular business session will be Tuesday night, Nov. 20, instead of Wednesday night because of the Thanksgiving holiday, Mrs. Barnhouse stated.

On the music committee arranging the dinner program with Mrs. Case were Miss Elizabeth Heberman, Miss Evelyn Hipsher, Miss Evelyn McCormick, Mrs. Pearle Vestal and Mrs. Dorcas Shaffer. The financial committee responsible for the special project with Mrs. Greenwood were Mrs. Gladys Arter, Miss Dora Leib, Mrs. Gloria Miley, Mrs. Mary Musser, Miss Donna Salter and Miss Marilyn Smart.

Squelching Hecklers

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

TO GET ahead in show business today you have to develop the art of squelching hecklers gracefully.

For hecklers hang out in the swank night clubs as well as the rafters of Madison Square Garden.

"They fall into two broad types —people who try to get into the act deliberately, and those who unconsciously slow up the show," said Margaret Phelan, a red-haired Texas lass who has become one of America's top supper club singers.

Sometimes performers have a mild desire to go to work on boorish hecklers with a baseball bat. Many do keep a stock collection of cutting deep freeze remarks handy to chill noisy showoffs. The oldest standby: "Why don't you just turn yourself into a hoop and roll away?"

Hal Boyle

But Maggie prefers generally to rely on a pretty smile and a friendly rebuke that leaves no sting.

"You don't want to make them mad," she said. "You just want to make them aware they are disturbing others -- and holding up the show. The audience doesn't like it, either, if an entertainer embarrasses a heckler too much, unless he is completely out of hand.

Surprisingly, Miss Phelan says there are just about as many women hecklers as men.

"But it is much harder to handle a woman heckler," she said, "because she often is doing it deliberately."

HERE ARE seven types of deliberate and unconscious night club hecklers she has catalogued:

The lost soul — "He wanders from chair to chair, table to table, all through the performance."

The fellows with determined looks who keep walking in and out of the spotlight, holding their foreheads like Indian scouts — "they are looking for the men's room."

The silverware droppers, ice-in-the-glass tinklers, and the swizzle-stick-against-the-glass rhythm keepers — "whether they are dropping a fork or trying to keep time, they are always a half beat off."

The frustrated Carusos—"They want to make a duet of your solo. Thank Heaven, there aren't many of these."

THE WOULD-BE Milton Berles—"They make loud wisecracks, probably hoping a television producer in the audience will hear them and hire them. But I never heard of anybody getting a job that way."

The lady conversationalists — "They try to talk above the music because they want to be the life of their party. But if they'd wait until the show was over, they'd have more to talk about—when they'll need some conversation.

The elderly kittenish romeos —"usually you can quiet them with a wink. I'm afraid to do it by kissing them on their bald heads — there's so much heart trouble around these days."

Recognize your type?

Maggie has found the least heckling in San Francisco and New York, the most in England and Texas.

* * *

"BUT THE English and Texans are good-natured about it, and I like happy hecklers. If you kid back and get the best of them, they like that better than the rest of the show."

There is a maverick breed, however, that disconcerts any performer.

"That's the strong, silent he-man heckler, and he's the worst of all," Maggie said, smiling. "He's the type who sits at a ringside table with his back turned to you all the time you're on.

"There's nothing you can do with him. But I just figure his wife has got him buffaloed—he doesn't dare turn around."

Character Building?

By Inez Robb

NEW YORK

IT BEATS me how any right-thinking, red-blooded American can believe other than that football is the greatest institution in the world for character building and instillation of sportsmanship in the young.

I have just concluded a searching examination of the pictures taken at the Drake-Oklahoma A and M football game at Stillwater, Okla., a few weeks ago. They certainly furnish inspiring evidence of character building and sportsmanship in action.

Inez Robb

These pictures document the eminently sportsmanlike, character building action of one Wilbanks Smith, defensive tackle for Okla. A and M, in disposing of an opposition player, John Bright, former Drake halfback.

I use the word "former" advisedly. John, the nation's leading ground-gainer before his encounter with Wilbanks, isn't playing football any more since Wilbanks gave him a demonstration of football's sportsmanlike, character building proclivities.

NATURALLY, AS THE NATIONS leading ground-gainer of 1951, John was a dangerous man to have around—in the opposition lineup. But Wilbanks, conscious of all the character building and sportsmanship to which he might be heir, took care of that: early in the game, he slugged John so hard he broke the Bright jaw.

The pictures show John was no place near the ball at the time and no threat to anyone. And the pictures will also show Wilbanks, full of character and sportsmanship, heading for the Drake halfback and then slugging him.

"I knew it was broken the first play," Bright said later. "I felt it bust." But he managed to get to his feet and throw a 40-yard pass for a touchdown on the next play.

This, as it turned out, was a mistake on Bright's part. Because Wilbanks, charged up with sportsmanship and full of character building, was right in there fighting.

"IF AT FIRST YOU DON'T SUCCEED, TRY, TRY AGAIN," and that's what Wilbanks, pride of Oklahoma A and M did. He had no way of knowing he had smashed Johns' jaw on that first try. So Wilbanks plowed in again, when no one was looking, and pasted John once more.

Well, this time sportsmanship and character building paid off. John had to be removed from the game. And all might have been lost, indeed, in this brave little world of sportsmanship and character building if two photographers from the Des Moines Sunday Register hadn't had their cameras focused on John every second of the game.

According to the caption in a national picture magazine, showing the blow-by-blow football play, "Word was around that Drake's halfback, John Bright, would not be around at the end of the game."

There were even supposed to be betting pools on when the Aggies would "get Bright."

THERE ARE BENIGHTED PERSONS who believe that Coach J. B. Whitworth of Oklahoma A and M should have thrown Wilbanks off the team. But instead Mr Whitworth merely described his player, so full of sportsmanship and character, as "a boy of good character. He must have lost his head.

"It was an impulsive thing to do."

There are even more benighted, unreasonable persons who believe Henry G. Bennett, president of Oklahoma A and M, should have proved his fitness to be president of a college by summarily firing the coach and his boy, Wilbanks, the impulsive, sportsmanlike lad.

But a statement from Stillwater whimsically described the incident "as illegal but not intentional."

Nor have the officials of the Missouri Valley Football Conference deigned, so far, to comment on this example of character building and sportsmanship.

So, all in all, I simply can't understand why so many Americans think college football stinks in spades when it is obviously so devoted to sportsmanship and fair play.

INDIAN FIGHTER. Here's a good likeness of Mrs. Solomon Young, grandmother of President Harry S. Truman, to whom the Chief Executive referred when he recently called for a revival of the pioneer spirit. He recounted that she once routed a band of marauding Indians in Missouri with the help of two "great big shepherd dogs, and they didn't bother her any more."

Richwood Circle Donates to Fund

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD—The Victory Circle of the King's Daughters held their November meeting Monday night at the home of Mrs. Judy Roberts. Associate hostesses were Mrs. Dora Mae Foos and Mrs. Mabel Mead. Devotions were given by Mrs. Helen Collier.

Reports were given by the treasurer of their recent bake sale, also of the refreshments which they served at the American Legion Halloween dance. This amount will be donated to the Richwood Baccarat Lake fund. The Circle voted to mail letters to the citizens of Richwood and community asking their cooperation in the Baccarat Lake project.

A report of the convention held in Columbus was given by Mrs. Mary Margaret Collins. Members were asked to take their gifts to the Mrs. Lelan Johnston home by Nov. 20 for the Thanksgiving basket for those living in the Union County Home. Plans were made to serve a turkey dinner for the Dec. 6 meeting of the Lions Club, the proceeds to be given to the Baccarat Lake project fund.

Parcels To Overseas GI's Should Be Mailed This Week

Two days remain before the deadline for mailing parcels to members of the armed forces overseas if they are to reach their destination by Christmas. Postmaster Homer D. Cole reminded Marionites today that Thursday is the deadline.

Boxes for overseas transmission must be of strong construction and must be of metal, wood, solid fiberboard or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard. Each box should be securely tied with strong cord.

In addition to complete addresses, prepared in typewriting or ink, inscriptions such as "Merry Christmas" and "Please do not open until Christmas" may be placed on the covering of the parcel or on an enclosed card.

Postal money orders are recommended to transmit gifts of money. Exportation of currency to overseas Army Postoffices where the dollar is not the accepted medium of exchange is prohibited.

Matches of all kinds and lighter fluid are unmailable in addition to the usual articles normally prohibited in the mails. Cigarets and other tobacco products are prohibited transmission for delivery through APO's.

VOTING RECORD CLAIMED

MARYSVILLE — The Union County health resort village of Magnetic Springs believes that it set a state record for voting at the Nov. 6th election when snow, ice and cold kept millions of Ohioans from going to the polls. Mayor Robert Eastgate, who was re-elected, claims the record on the basis that out of 160 eligible voters in the village, 151 cast their ballots.

JACKSON CLUB TO MEET

RICHWOOD—There will be a meeting of the Jackson Township Better School Club Monday night Nov. 19 in the Essex School auditorium. Following a covered dish supper at 6.30 Ralph White will show picture slides taken at the pet show held recently at the school. Gale Baldwin of Marysville, county school superintendent will address the group in the interest of the school.

Loses 40 Lbs. Mansfield Lady Did It With Rennel

"Rennel Concentrate has helped me so much," writes Mrs. Gladys Wharton, 389 Grace St., Mansfield, Ohio. "I have lost 40 lbs. over the short period of time I have been taking Rennel, and I am not troubled with that stuffed up feeling that I had before. Before taking Rennel my feet used to swell terribly, but not near so much any more. I can now work all day without feeling exhausted, and I no longer suffer from constipation. Rennel Concentrate has been a blessing to me, and I did not have to go on a strict diet to lose this weight.

Imagine, eat plenty and lose weight with this simple yet effective amazing home recipe. After purchasing a bottle of Rennel from your druggist pour the contents into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. No diets to complicate your meal planning. No expensive vitamins to fortify your system from weakness while going without food for you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. Insist on and be sure to get genuine Rennel.

Plan Yearly GI Insurance Dividends

Veterans Administration officials in Washington are planning to distribute dividends on National Service Life Insurance policies on a yearly basis after final payments are made on the current dividend pool, Rep. J. Harry McGregor of West Lafayette, representative from the 17th Congressional District of Ohio, reported today.

Rep. McGregor made the announcement in a weekly report to his district from Washington. The 17th district includes Delaware County.

A formula for these annual allotments will be based on the death rate of policy holders and the number of veterans who keep up payments on their insurance, he said. If the deaths do not rise considerably or too many policy holders do not discontinue their policies, VA officials believe that yearly dividends will continue indefinitely.

Several reasons are behind the periodic dividend plan. One fact is that the Veterans Administration is using an outmoded mortality table which makes premiums higher than they should be, Rep. McGregor said.

By law the agency is forced to base premiums on this mortality table, but if the death rate at the end of the year is not high enough to warrant such high premiums, the excess is returned to the veterans in the form of dividends.

The Treasury also pays the VA a three per cent fee annually for use of the excess money, which increases the amount that can be dispersed to policy holders.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

My father rose punctiliously to greet Mildred and me as we came into the living room, and I knew that his keen eyes were searching both our faces, but his only comment was a playful one.

"Affairs of the United Nations all settled?" he queried.

"To the last dotting of the 'i's,' and the crossing of the 't's'" I told him, and then he turned to Lillian, Bess and Mildred

"I must go soon," he said, "or I shall be late for my appointment But I must see Richard and Harry before I go, and, as my daughter has said she must summon them first, I think I shall go along with her, waiting meekly in the corridor while she hauls them out So I will bid you 'au revoir.'"

He gave them a formal bow as they chorused their own farewells Then he put a possessive hand upon my arm, and steered me toward the corridor leading down to Dicky's room. But once the door had closed behind us he stopped short, and turned me to face him

"Am I right in thinking you have something to tell me before we see Richard and Harry?" he asked

"'Right as rain'" I quoted the old cliche with a smile at the face filled with affection which looked down at me Then I told him swiftly of Harry Underwood's suggestion that Dicky prepare Bill for Mildred's wish to accept the FBI assignment in her college, with its banishing of all her financial problems

"He is briefing Dicky even now, and giving him an unnecessary caution to keep Mildred in ignorance of the plan," I said, and saw quickened interest in my father's eyes.

"Why 'unnecessary?'" he asked

"Because Mildred just has asked me if it were possible for Dicky or me to tell Bill of the offer you made her, making him believe that we are acting without her knowledge, but giving her that knowledge before she sees Bill"

My father does not often show astonishment, even to me, but when I had finished, he gave a low, almost boyish whistle.

"My word" he said 'That is 'something for the book,' although her action really bolsters the opinion I had formed of her. If I had believed that she would yield to any impetuous and callow disapproval of her course on Bill's part, I should not have offered her the confidential work. I am very glad now that she is to become one of my helpers. She will do good work, I am sure"

"I agree with you," I told him, and he smiled down at me

"Have you anything more to tell me?" he asked

"Only that Mildred is sure her parents will approve of her doing your work," I answered.

"Then," he said, putting his hand beneath my arm again, "let us go down to Dicky and Harry."

My knock on Dicky's door brought him quickly to it, and if he was surprised at my father's presence, he gave no hint of it

"Come in" he bade us. "Dad, I know you'll want to hear the dream Harry has just brought out from his little gray cells' Or has my spouse already told you about it?"

"Yes, she has," my father said, "but she has something even more surprising—and interesting—to tell you. Mildred has thought of the same plan, asked that you carry it out, telling Bill that she knows nothing of it, but saying that you will tell her before she sees him and informs him herself of the plan"

DEATHS and FUNERALS

Robert O. Hopkins

A native of Marion County and former resident of this city, Robert Ovington Hopkins, 89, died Sunday in California at the Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital. For the last three years, he had made his home in Los Angeles, Calif., with his daughter, Mrs. Robert E. Griffith.

Born March 15, 1862, near Mecker, he was a son of Robert Hopkins and Martha Jane Day Hopkins, both natives of Marion County. He was married in Marion in September, 1888, to Miss Nancy Johnston, who died in November, 1937. Mr. Hopkins lived nearly his entire life in Marion and had returned to this city twice in the last year for visits. He was connected with the railway service in Marion for over 40 years, the last 20 years with the C. & O. frieght office. He retired from active work about eight years ago. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Mail Clerks and also of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Surviving with the daughter are two nieces and a nephew here, Mrs. J. C. Turner of 206 S. High St., Mrs. Lowell H. Guthery of 451 Merchant Ave., and Robert E. Dombaugh of 236 N. Prospect St. He was the last of his family, two sisters, Mrs. Jane C. Rexroth and Mrs. Laura A. Dombaugh, having preceded him in death.

Information regarding funeral arrangements has not been received here as yet. His body is expected to be returned to Marion for burial.

Homer Walter

Word has been received by Mrs. W. F. Wetterauer of 469 Blaine Ave. of the death of her brother, Homer Walter, 68, of Spokane, Wash., a former resident of Marion. He died of a heart attack Saturday at his home in Spokane.

Born Nov. 20, 1882, he was a son of George Nelson Walter and Denlza Ann Erwin Walter. At one time, he was employed as a machinist at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. here. He was not married.

Only survivors are the sister, Mrs. Wetterauer, several nieces and a nephew. A sister, Mrs. Minnie Spragg, preceded him in death.

Funeral services and burial will be held in Spokane.

Mrs. Charles Inskeep

Mrs. Maud Inskeep, 87, formerly of Marion and of the Richwood community, a teacher of music here many years ago, died at 10 a.m. Sunday at Pittsburgh, Pa., where she had made her home some time. She had been ill two years. Her home was with a daughter, Mrs. Alice Minerva Southard, at Pittsburgh.

She was a daughter of F. M. Drake and Minerva Drake. Her husband, Charles Inskeep, died 10 years ago.

Survivors include with the daughter a niece and nephews.

The body is to be sent to the Winter Funeral Chapel at Richwood. Graveside services in Marion Cemetery will be Wednesday at 11 a.m. in charge of Rev. Francis J. McCracken.

Samuel B. Armstrong

SYCAMORE—Samuel B. Armstrong, 69, farmer of Eden Twp., six miles southeast of Sycamore, died at 1:50 p. m. Monday in his home. He had been ill three years and was seriously ill four days.

Born Oct. 15, 1882, in the home where he died, he was a son of William W. and Eliza Jonston Armstrong. He was not married.

Today's Birthday

DECHARD A. HULCY, born Nov. 13, 1892, on a farm in Robertson Co., Tex., is president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

He is also president of the Lone Star Gas Co., with which he began work as a clerk in 1920.

Hulcy worked hard from childhood.

Because of family financial difficulties he stopped school at the eighth grade, took a job and continued his education by correspondence courses and night work.

Mrs. Chalmers Olson

GALION—Funeral services will be held Thursday, in Elkhart, Ind., for Mrs. Chalmers Olson, mother of Mrs. Merritt C. McElroy of Galion. Mrs. McElroy and her husband will attend the services.

Mrs. Olson died suddenly Saturday at Redlands, Calif. of a heart ailment. She had been visiting another daughter, Mrs. Chester Quick. Besides Mrs. McElroy, there is a son, James Olson of New York City, and a son-in-law, Dr. John D. LeFevre of Springfield.

James V. Connor

KENTON—Services for James V. Connor, 82, former Kenton businessman, were set today at 9:30 a.m. at the Church of the Immaculate Conception with Rev. Fr. Francis Hickey in charge. Burial was to be in St. Mary's Catholic cemetery here.

Mr. Connor died Saturday at San Antonio Hospital after an illness of four weeks. He was born March 7, 1869 in Birmingham, England, and came to this country at the age of two years with his parents, the late Bryant and Mary Morris Connor. He first made his home at Salinesville, Ohio, and attended buisness college at Pittsburgh. He started a department store at Cadiz, Ohio, and after a number of years, moved to Mansfield where he started another department store. In 1910 he came to Kenton where he opened a clothing store.

After retiring from active business, he was with the Ohio Sales Tax Commission for a number of years. He served as Kenton City Treasurer, was a member of the Knights of Columbus and the Holy Name Society.

In 1903 at Pittsburgh he was married to Caroline J. Morrison who survives with one son, James M. Connor of Kenton; one daughter, Mrs. Mary Overman of Akron, and four grandchildren.

HOSHTESS TO CIRCLE

For a recent meeting of Wesley Methodist Circle One, Mrs. Emma Lehman was hostess in her home on Windsor St. Plans were made to finish a comforter for the church bazaar. A report was given of 77 calls made. Mrs. Minnie Baughman was in charge of business, and devotions were by Mrs. Verna Rice. For a program in charge of Mrs. Edith Bush, readings were given by Mrs. Lena Williams, Mrs. Blanche Durham, Mrs. William Reeves and Mrs. J. C. Chaney. Mrs. Lois Thornberry was a guest. The next meeting will be held at the parsonage on Blaine Ave.

Hunting

must obtain permission from the farmers to hunt on the land, whether or not it is posted.

The game protector also cautioned hunters on the deer question. "The deer population in Marion County is high and any person caught molesting one of the animals will find it expensive," he warned. He asked hunters, sighting a deer, not to frighten the animal any more than was necessary and under no conditions to give chase or shout at them.

May Hunt in Dam Area

Rabbit and pheasant hunting also will be allowed in the Delaware Dam area. The same rules will apply as those used during the duck hunting period. All hunters must report to the checking stations in the area when entering and leaving. Coon hunters, however, will not be required to check in at the stations.

Mr. Neimeyer concluded by urging hunters to use caution in the fields. Veteran hunters say main safety rule to follow is to always make sure of the target. "Trigger-happy" hunters usually are the main cause of trouble when they fire at the slightest noise or rustle in the underbrush. Extra caution also was urged in crossing fences and jumping over ditches with loaded guns.

Two Arrested On Health Dept. Charges

Two persons were arrested by Marion police yesterday on charges filed by the city health department. Both were charged with allowing rubbish to be thrown around their premises.

Leslie Gear, 49, of 523 Decatur St. was fined $15 and costs this morning in Municipal Court and ordered by Judge W. Dexter Hazen to clean the area around his home.

Charles Eckard, 50, of 445 Jefferson St. is to appear in Municipal Court tomorrow morning

Where Do We Go From Here?

The foreign policy of the United Sttaes is the direct concern of every American, for it extends to every family, every pocketbook, every effort.

Senator Robert A. Taft is the leading opposition member in the U. S. Senate in this great political issue, and his views on foreign policy are important to everyone. They draw the battle line between the present policies and the proposed changes, and each reader can draw his own conclusion and choose his own side.

"A Foreign Policy For Americans" is the title of a forthcoming book by Senator Taft. An exclusive, 12-instalment serialization of this book will be published in The Marion Star, and you will want to read every word of it. Watch for . . .

INDIANAPOLIS — (UP) — City firemen stood helplessly by and watched a house go up in flames when a passenger train chopped their hose into three pieces. The nearest fireplug to the burning structure was across the railroad tracks.

BEAR BLAMED

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(UP)—A state highway patrolman had a novel explantion for an automobile accident. He said a black bear ran onto the highway and hit the back of his car. The patrolman displayed a handful of coarse hair to back up his story.

Arrest Driver For Failure To Stop After Accident

Elwin Campbell, 29, of Cleveland was arrested by state highway patrolmen last night after he failed to stop following an automobile accident at 6:10 p.m. He pleaded guilty to the charge before Mayor C. R. Mateer of Cardington and was fined $25 and costs.

His car sideswiped a car driven by Donald Krause, 33, of Dayton as he attempted to pass the Krause car on Route 42, 1½ miles south of Cardington. The cars, which were going north, were damaged slightly.

Another accident occurred at 5:50 p.m. yesterday when a car driven by Walter Allen, 25, of Shelby struck the rear of a car driven by Arthur Miller, 54, of Crestline, who was attempting to turn south. Both cars were going west on Route 96, 2½ miles north of the intersection of Route 61.

The Allen car was heavily damaged and the Miller car was damaged slightly.

Steven Selmantz, 27, of Columbus, was arrested on a charge of speeding on Route 23 at 4:45 p.m. yesterday. He pleaded guilty and was fined $15 and costs by L. C. Schoenberger, justice of the peace in Upper Sandusky.

Steubenville On Top In Prep Standings

Through the SPORTSCOPE with A.L. McCLAIN

AFTER THE BATTLE, MOTHER. Drumming up some imaginary conversation with football coaches after weekend football games

"Well, Pete Howlson, how do you feel about your youngsters' defensive lapse against Sandusky?"

Howlson: Shaking his head, "We aren't looking back this week only ahead. If the boys can stop Lewis and Surratt Friday the Buckeye League title will be ours."

"Mr Robbins, you seem to be smiling despite the Irish loss to Elm Valley."

ROBBINS: "Elm Valley has a great team Next to Tiffin Calvert the finest we saw this season Our 3-5-1 record was only fair, but then there is basketball to think about now"

"Hello, Lefty (Lefty James Cornell coach). Your boys must have been gunning for Michigan. Must have been a blow to the Big Ten's prestige to lose to an Ivy League team."

JAMES: "We got all the bad football out of our system in that nightmare with Princeton. But one Big Ten team a season is enough for us"

"Mr. Woody Hayes, for a minute I didn't see you with your head down. How went the Bucks?"

HAYES: "I don't feel so good Since that game with Pittsburgh my indigestion has been on the bum. After winning two weeks in a row on the strength of Vic Janowicz' toe we're thinking of having Lloyds of London insure it for a quarter of a million bucks."

"My, college football must be in the upper income tax brackets. I believe I see Frank Leahy of Notre Dame next to Mr Hayes What happened to the Irish?"

LEAHY: "The lads are young They don't even shave But some of them eat like Leon Hart and we're hoping for the best Biggie Munn has a fine team and we offer no excuses. But we could use a couple of tackles who shave at least once a week."

"I believe Minnesota is represented here today. Care to say a few words Mr. Wesley Fesler?"

FESLER: "Delighted The boys were great, simply great. Indiana sure threw a scare into us late in the game and I felt limp when we finally won out. Yes, I like Minnesota fine. .No early phone calls so far."

"I don't believe I recognize the big gentleman on the end Care to introduce yourself, sir?"

LEAHY: "He's grinning so widely he can't talk. That's Biggie Munn of MSC. You know the old saying: he who grins last grins best"

"I believe it's laughs, not grins, Mr Leahy. But we won't quibble

"Now, gentlemen before we break up, who is that young man standing in the corner?"

CHORUS: "He's the water boy who got so worked up he hit Cleveland Brown Back Chuck Jagade on the head Sunday. For shame! For shame!"

FOOTBALL FINALE

MARIETTA, O., Nov. 13—(AP)—Marietta College ended its football season yesterday with a 23-0 win over Salem College of West Virginia. It was Marietta's second win against four defeats and a tie. Salem took its eighth straight loss.

Newsmen Vote Bob Feller Man of Year

CLEVELAND, Nov 13—(AP)—Cleveland baseball writers today named pitcher Bob Feller as the Indians' "Man of the Year" for 1951.

The big righthander won 22 and lost eight for the best record on the Tribe's fine mound staff One of his victories was the third no-hitter of his 13-season major league career

Feller, who was 33 just 10 days ago, has a lifetime record of 230 victories—all for Cleveland That total is higher than that of any other active major league hurler

Second Baseman Bob Avila was the only other Indian considered in the balloting by 15 members of the Cleveland chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America. The writers will present the award to Feller at their annual "ribs and roasts" dinner Jan 21.

Since the "man of the year" award was inaugurated here, it has gone to Bill Veeck, Lou Boudreau, Gene Bearden, Bob Lemon, and Larry Doby, in that order.

Harding-Fremont Contest Listed as One of Top Games

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Nov 13—(AP)—For the first time in years, Massillon's three-time state champions were out of the top spot today in the weekly Associated Press poll to select the state's outstanding high school grid team

Coach Roy Hoyman's Big Red team of Steubenville snatched the No 1 spot from his alma mater by a slim three points on the votes of 25 newspaper and 11 radio sports editors—241 to 238.

Springfield's high-scoring Wildcats, runners-up a week ago, skidded to third place with 223 points on the 10-9-8-etc voting system under which each editor picks 10 top teams The Wildcat team picked up nine first-choice ballots to lead that division, and was only 18 points out of the top spot A week ago Springfield was 53 points back of leading Massillon

Edge Warren

Steubenville was defeated 13-7 by Massillon early in the season as the Tigers scored in the last 10 seconds But Friday night the Big Red nosed out Warren, only team to whip Massillon, by 13-12, while the Tigers had a rugged evening in handing Barberton its first defeat, 6-0

Springfield stayed within shooting distance of the top by overwhelming Toledo Central Catholic, 53-13, giving the Wildcats 99 points in their last two contests

Hamilton's Big Blue moved up a notch to fourth, and Zanesville jumped two places to fifth by thumping Dayton Fairview, 49-0, rounding out and unbeaten season

Top games this week send Massillon (8-1) against Canton McKinley (2-7), Springfield (8-1) against Mansfield (6-2-1), New Philadelphia (7-2) against Dover (9-0), Hamilton (8-1) against Middletown (7-2) and Marion against Fremont Ross (8-0-1).

Emil Ihnat has an unbeaten club which ended Cardington's 16-game winning streak and wound up with a 54-6 win over Marion St. Mary

Stops Harding

Junior Jude Thiebert of Sandusky threw touchdown passes for 66, 62, 43, 40 and 35 yards in the 39-20 win over Marion, Howard Elgart grabbing four of 'em.

Fremont Ross, riding high on the performances of three stars, goes after its first undefeated season Friday against Marion John Lewis has rushed 1,336 yards in nine games for Ross, has scored 17 touchdowns of which 13 came on runs of 20 to 90 yards, and has had eight others (the shortest 37 yards) called back The other standouts are Jerome Surratt, who has 12 touchdowns, and Capt. Bob Biggs, a 223-pound lineman. Ohio State, Michigan State and Michigan "front liners" are hot on the trail of all three.

Turner Makes Docusen Quit

PHILADELPHIA, Nov 13 — (AP)—Gil Turner feels he has passed all the tests necessary for a fight with welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan.

The 21-year-old Philadelphian won his 25th and most convincing triumph of an unbeaten career last night when he threw so many punches at Bernie (Big Duke) Docusen, the clever little Filipino decided discretion was the better part of valor and quit in his corner.

Docusen refused to come out for the seventh round. He told ringside physician, Dr. W. G B Terry he had had enough. And in his convention hall dressing room, the New Orleans veteran said Turner was just too good for him

Prexies Show Zip In Practice Drills For Little Giants

By JOHN SHORT

Coach Pete Howlson's Harding gridders are faced with the tough task of facing Fremont Ross in the season finale here Friday night

But the Prexies are showing no fear of the power-packed Giants Last night, the crew ran through a spirited drill period in preping for the tilt The winner will be crowned Buckeye League champions Fremont goes into the game with a clean record of three wins in league play while Hardings only blemish was a 27-27 tie with Fostoria

At last night's session, Chris Brady was the only Prexy absent He is nursing a shoulder injury, but may be ready for Friday night

Last Hurdle

The Giants are expected to be "up" for the title battle The Prexies are the only hurdle in the Fremont school's drive for its first undefeated season in its history Only blemish on the Ross record is a 13-13 tie with Columbus East. The clock saved the Giants in that game as it ran out with East driving for a score inside the Fremont 10-yard stripe when the final gun sounded

The power generated by the Ross backfield has overcome all opponents this season This power can best be illustrated by the fact that the fullback, Earl Aspergen, has carried the ball only 27 times in nine games Carrying the offensive load all season has been Halfbacks John Lewis and Jerome Surratt Lewis weighs in above the 180-pound mark while Surratt scales above 170. Lewis has registered 18 touchdowns in the first nine games for Coach Mal Mackey's eleven.

Running from a split-T formation, the Giants depend almost entirely on a ground game. Very little passing has been used by Fremont all season The Giants are rated 10th this week in The Associated Press' poll of Ohio high school grid teams.

One Formation Isn't Enough, Says Steve Owen

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—Steve Owen, veteran coach of the New York professional Giants, says the day is gone when one formation is enough for a winning football team

"You have to have several formations to get by these days," Owen declared today

"I watched Michigan State beat Notre Dame last Saturday on television They didn't just use one formation. They used the single-wing, double wing, the sliding 'T'—why, I think their first five plays were from different formations.

"The modern trend is to mix up the formations and have three or four solid plays from each

"There's a definite trend away from the straight T. Most good teams are mixing 'em up."

MSC Back on Top as Nation's No. 1 Eleven; Illini Rank Third

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—Michigan State, back on top in the Associated Press' football poll, may be hard to dislodge from its position as the No. 1 team in the nation.

The spectacular Spartans play in Indiana Saturday and close out their season the following week against Colorado. Both games should prove easy for the infant member of the Big Ten.

Tennessee, which dropped to second after a three-week reign at the top, has three toughies barring its way to a perfect season. The Vols take on Mississippi, Kentucky and Vanderbilt.

Big Gain

Michigan State, leader the first two weeks, vaulted from fifth place this week after drawing 55 of 138 first-place votes and 1,316 points from sports writers and sports casters.

Tennessee gained 42 first and 1,155 points to nose out Illinois for second. The Illini, Big Ten leaders, finished third with 20 firsts and 1,145 points. The three pace-setters are riding seven-game winning streaks.

The Spartans charged to the top as a result of their smashing 35-0 victory over Notre Dame. Tennessee and Illinois scored easy 60-14 and 40-13 victories, respectively, over Washington and Lee, and Iowa. Illinois has two tough conference games remaining against Ohio State and Northwestern.

1.	Michigan State (55)	1,316
2.	Tennessee (42)	1,155
3.	Illinois (20)	1,145
4.	Stanford (12)	951
5.	Maryland (16)	927
6.	Princeton (6)	733
7.	Georgia Tech	519
8.	Wisconsin (2)	400
9.	Kentucky (4)	249
10.	Baylor	238

Three other unbeaten and untied teams followed the top three. Stanford, with eight victories, came in fourth with 951 points. Maryland, boasting seven victories, placed fifth with 927 points and Princeton, also unbeaten in seven outings, was sixth with 793 points. Rounding out the top ten are: Georgia Tech, Wisconsin, Kentucky and Baylor in that order.

In 4th Spot

Stanford gained fourth on the strength of its 27-20 victory over Southern California. Maryland breezed to a 40-21 win over Navy and Princeton staggered Harvard, 54-13.

Rally To Collect Funds for Thorpe

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—Indians in the metropolitan area are rallying to help Jim Thorpe, the fabulous Indian athlete who is recovering from an operation at Philadelphia.

Thorpe's wife said the onetime All-America football star and Olympic medal winner, voted "athlete of the century" in Associated Press poll, is without funds.

A Sioux princess, Juanita Sonter, said she had formed a committee to raise funds from among Indians to aid Thorpe. She said she herself had donated $100.

Suffers Fractured Skull in Game Against OWU

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—(AP)—Charles Bolender, 19-year-old Muskingum College fullback, got a "terrific headache" in Saturday's game with Ohio Wesleyan University.

Yesterday x-rays disclosed his skull was fractured. A physician said there is possibly a blood clot on his brain.

Bolender was reported in "fair" condition at Grant Hospital in Columbus last night. The physician told a reporter an examination today will determine definitely whether there is a blood clot.

Muskingum Coach Ed Sherman ordered x-rays when Bolender's headache didn't improve. Bolender played much of the game, which Wesleyan won 69-6, but only carried the ball once. He never was taken out for an injury.

Bolender, a sophomore, is from Canton. He played football and basketball for Lehman High School there.

Bishops Eye League Crown

DELAWARE, O., Nov. 13—Ohio Wesleyan's amazing Bishops will be guarding against a let-down in their Dad's Day clash with Wittenberg here Saturday as they point for the mythical Ohio Conference title and their eighth straight victory.

Wittenberg's Fighting Lutherans held the Bishops to a 7-7 tie last year, the only smudge on OWU's league mark in 16 games. This season Glenn Fraser's charges have an 8-1 over-all record and five conference decisions, while Wittenberg has 4-4 for the season and one verdict in four loop games.

There'll be little tinkering with the Bishop starting array that exploded for 10 touchdowns at Muskingum last Saturday. The only doubtful position is right half where Stan Atma may replace Joe Slone on the offensive eleven.

Big factor in the Muskie game, besides the four fumbles recovered by the alert Wesleyanites, was the passing of Hayden Buckley. The senior quarterback completed his first six pass tries—he missed only one during the day—for 177 yards. Three of them went for touchdowns and another set up a score.

Little All-American candidate End Dale Bruce caught two of Buckley's touchdown heaves and managed a total of 91 yards in four catches. That brought his season's total to 26 completitions for 583 yards and seven touchdowns. His 42 points pace the Bishop scoring, with Jack Allen's 30 markers second best.

Buckley, Bruce, Allen, Atma and Slone all will be playing their last game for Wesleyan along with Chuck Barber, Harold Betz, John Blair, Wally Cross, John Fisher, Vern Fraser, Chuck Higgins, Chuck Kaiser, and John Vossers—14 in all.

Newcombe Expects To Enter Marines

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's 20 game winning pitcher, says he expects to be in the Marines by the time another baseball season rolls around.

The towering righthander finished three days of pre-induction tests at Fort Jay, N. Y., over the week end and he said he was given to understand he passed without a hitch.

"They said I'd get a decision in 10 days," he said. He added that he expects to land in the Marines because Army and Navy quotas are filled in this area.

Lions Club Hears District Governor

Elmer Tankersley Of Sandusky Is Luncheon Speaker

Elmer Tankersley of Sandusky, district governor of Lions International, was guest speaker when the Lions Club met Monday noon at Hotel Harding.

Mr. Tankersley gave views on the internal structure of Lions International. He compared the organization to a corporation with each member considered a stockholder.

The district governor reported that Ohio's membership in Lions Club is fifth highest among the 48 states. He added that Lions International is active in 83 countries, including the Leper Colony on the Hawiian Islands.

Tentative dates were announced for a district convention in Marion, April 19 and 20, and for a state convention in Cincinnati, May 16, 17 and 18.

Results of the 10-week attendance contest were announced. Robert Bartlett's team finished first with 655 points. Members of the winning team are Phil Boyd, Howard Buck, J. W. Bull, Robert Graham, Edward Hachten, Arthur Keever, James Neff, Roy Shipton and Ronald Scharer. Marion Hinklin's team placed second with 585 points. Carl Meddles served as attendance contest chairman.

Guests were Harry Waxler of Prospect and George Piacentino of Marion.

Early Detection of Diabetes

There are few diseases in which more progress has been made during recent decades than diabetes. This is due not only to the discovery of insulin, but also to constant study aimed directly at enabling a diabetic patient—whether child or adult—to live a normal span of active and useful years.

To take full advantage of this accumulation of knowledge, it is necessary that diabetes be detected early in its course. With proper treatment right from the start, many of its complications and damaging effects can be lessened or even warded off entirely.

Diabetes is a disease which affects the ability to use sugar and starches. In the ordinary person, these foods are converted into energy, but in the diabetic this process goes awry, with the result that unused sugar piles up in the blood stream and is excreted by the kidneys.

Thus, in the midst of plenty, the diabetic can be said to starve in this important respect. This accounts for the rapid and marked weight loss so often experienced by diabetics, as well as for their tendency to give out easily. Appetite and thirst are increased and there is excessive urination. There may also be pain around the bones and joints, itching, slow healing of cuts and bruises, and sometimes disturbances of the eyesight.

Diabetes may occur at any age, or in any race or sex. It is generally more prevalent in persons whose families are diabetic. It is more common in people over forty, and in people who are overweight. Obesity or overweight is believed to be the most important contributory factor in the development of diabetes in people over the age of forty, since obesity upsets the normal use of fat and sugar by the body.

When discovered, diabetes can be adequately controlled by the use of insulin and proper diet.

It is important that all persons have a complete check-up once, or better twice, a year, at which time the urine should be examined for sugar. When diabetes is detected early in this way, proper treatment can assure a normal life span.

Questions and Answers

S. D.: Is there any treatment other than surgery for a ruptured disk?

Answer: In some instances, placing a board between the spring and mattress of the bed, the wearing of a back support, and the use of traction devices may relieve the symptoms of a ruptured disk.

CHILDREN HELP OUT

NEWBURGH, N. Y.— (UP) — Five children raised $42.15 for mid-west flood relief by staging a "carnival" at which they charged two cents admission. The children turned the money over to the Red Cross.

Bloodmobile Due in Marion Again Friday

This Friday, when the Bloodmobile visits Marion, city and county residents will again have the opportunity to help provide necessary blood for the armed forces in hospitals and on the battlefield of Korea.

The unit will be located in the recreation rom of the First Presbyterian Church from 12 o'clock noon to 6 p.m. Donors are asked to call 2-1053 for appointments.

At present there is no reserve of the greatly needed blood plasma. Quotas over the entire nation have been increased and the local Red Cross chapter is being asked to assist by meeting its quota each month.

The Defense Department needs 300,000 pints per month from now through next July. Marion's quota for November is 160 donors and 125 pints.

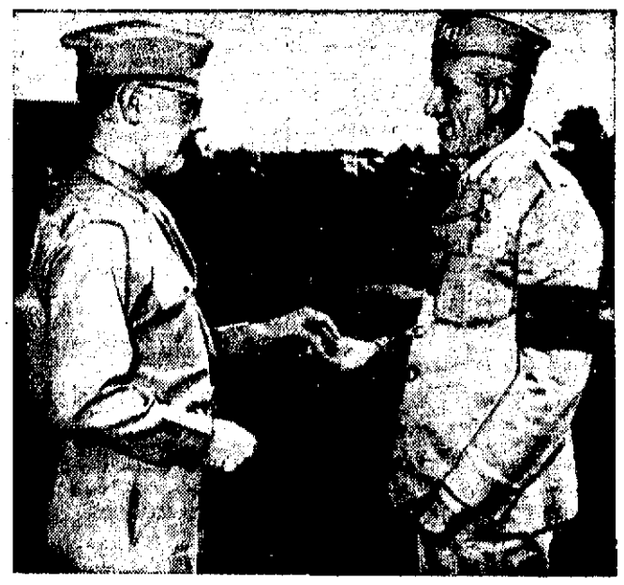
In Koren only two or three patients out of every 100 reaching the most forward hospitals die, it has been reported. This decrease is attributed by medical authorities largely to the use of plasma and whole blood.

The wounded soldier must be kept alive until medicine and surgery can be applied. It is blood or a blood derivitive — usually plasma—which keeps him alive.

TEACHERS GET LESS

WORCESTER, Mass. —(UP)— The principal of a recently-built Worcester County grammar school is paid $55 a week. That is $15 less than the wage earned by the lowest-paid common laborer in constructing the building.

President Taft brought the first automobile to the White House. It was a White Steamer.



RECEIVES NAVY CROSS FOR SON. Retired United States Army Capt. Eugene Guild of Glenwood Springs, Colo. (right), receives from Brig. Gen. Randolph Pate the Navy Cross awarded posthumously to his son, Marine Lt. John Guild, killed in action in Korea. Guild wrote President Truman asking him if "politics" prevented his son from getting the Congressional Medal of Honor awarded to another officer in the same action. The White House strongly denied the charge and Navy Secretary Kimball said "at no point . . . was Guild recommended for the Medal of Honor."

LT. JOHN GUILD
Why Not the Medal of Honor?

Father Is Reassured Over Medal

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 13 — (AP) — Retired Army Capt. Eugene R. Guild said today he has devoted "more than $1,800 of my son's death benefits" in a constant effort to present to President Truman the viewpoint of one parent of a boy who died in the Korean fighting.

The captain wrote the President Nov. 1 asking whether Mr. Truman's failure to award the Medal of Honor to his son was due to his criticism of tactics in Korea.

He said, however, that "I am relieved more and more by the statements from Key West and Washington" concerning the award of the Medal of Honor to Marine Lt. Henry Alfred Commiskey and the award of a Navy Cross to the captain's son, 25-year-old Marine Lt. John Guild, killed while fighting at Commiskey's side.

Presidential secretary Joseph Short yesterday told newsmen at Key West, Fla., that Mr. Truman considers the Congressional Medal of Honor as "sacred" and would not tolerate "any one tampering" with the procedures set up for its award.

Records show young Guild and Commiskey were both initially recommended for the Navy Cross by their division commander but that the commander of U.S. Naval forces in the Far East, Vice Admiral Charles Turner Joy, had recommended Commiskey's award be raised to the Medal of Honor.

Lakeside Assoc. To Meet Here

The board of trustees of the Lakeside Association will meet in Marion Wednesday to elect officers. The sessions will be at Epworth Methodist Church. Dr. V. E. Busler, host pastor, is chairman of the nominating committee.

Approximately 40 members are expected to attend representing both the Ohio and Northeast Ohio Conferences of the Methodist Church, as well as trustees at large. Time of the morning meeting will be 10 o'clock, and following dinner served by women of the host church, an afternoon session will convene.

Dr. Russell J. Humbert has been president until recently when he left his pastorate at Youngstown to accept the presidency of DePauw University at Greencastle, Ind. The vice president it E. S. Mason of Cincinnati.

The Lakeside Association is responsible for the affairs of the village of Lakeside, having a lease on the land, and for management of the grounds and of the summer resort program.

Holiday Workshop Planned For Wyandot County

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY — Final plans for the countywide Christmas workshop in Wyandot County were worked out at a meeting of the Home Council committee Monday afternoon in Upper Sandusky.

The workshop will be held Wednesday, Nov. 14, from 11 a. m. to 9 p.m. in Sycamore at the school gymnasium. This workshop is open to all homemakers and others interested in new ideas for Christmas gifts and decorations.

Along with the exhibits of the different crafts learned by the homemakers, there will be committees in charge to demonstrate methods of doing each type of craft.

There will be gift wrapping demonstrations and displays showing some of the different fancy decorations for packages. This section of the workshop will be in charge of Miss Wanda Reile of Salem Township.

A committee of Tymochtee Township women headed by Mrs. C. B. Sweigard will make Christmas candles and decorate them. Another part of the workshop will be reserved for a Christmas tree decorated with home-made ornaments, such as cookies made by Mrs. Ray Hehr and her committee from Crane Township.

Mrs. George Eyestone from Eden Township will serve as chairman of the display of purses made from plastics. There will be demonstrations showing the steps used in making the handbags.

Textile painting will be demonstrated by Mrs. Fred Powell and her group from Carey. They will also have a display of articles collected from women who find this craft an interesting hobby.

There will be a stage set arranged in a family living room scene by Nevada homemakers, with Mrs. Robert Koehler as chairman. From this stage will be given two short programs. One, at 2:30 p.m., will be arranged by the children of Sycamore School. Miss Doris Stacher will give a demonstration of table decorations. The other program will be at 8 p. m., with the homemakers chorus and a Christmas story by the Roiland Pencost family.

During the day, organ music in keeping with the season will be furnished by Nevin Kinsley and group singing of carols will be a part of the day. The workshop is sponsored by the Wyandot County Home Demonstration Council in cooperation with the County Extension office.

Threat To Peace From Within

Communist Party Russia's Trojan Horse

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—(AP)—The No. 1 gimmick — the hidden ball trick, the Trojan horse — in any attempt to get world peace is the local Communist party everywhere.

Suppose the U. S., Russia and the rest of the world agree on a peace plan, agree to stop arming, and in fact agree to cut down their armaments so much they'll no longer be a military menace to one another.

That would pretty much seem to eliminate the danger of an outbreak of war. It would still be an illusion, so far as the safety of the non-Communist countries is concerned.

They could still be taken into the Russian camp without a shot fired across their frontier, for so long as a local Communist party exists inside each of them each is in danger of being trapped.

Those local Communist parties inside the non-Communist countries wouldn't cut their ties with Russia. Wherever and whenever she could, Russia would direct them and support them under cover as she did in the past.

In a climate of peace the local Communists might be treated with far more tolerance than now by the non-Communist countries. This would be a natural reaction.

Job Made Easy

With Russia no longer a military menace, it would be easy for the non-Communist world to look upon its local Communists as helpless and ineffective

But so long as those local Communist parties existed, even though they had no planes or guns, they'd remain subsidized shock troops for Russia, trained to strike from within when they could.

They'd run for office, where that was permitted them, in order to get into and control key positions of government, useful positions to have if the time came to strike.

True, they might lack any popular support for a while, at least while peace seemed sure, times were good, and the future looked untroubled.

But no one is bold enough to predict there won't be another world depression. And as soon as it began, if it began, with misery and hunger spreading, the Communists would get new strength and supporters.

Where they could — and I wonder if anyone doubts this — they'd take over by revolution. If they couldn't do it that directly, they'd try to take over bloodlessly through election to enough key offices.

Bloodless Victory

And when they struck, if they won, Russia would have won It would be a victory for Russia just as good as conquest by arms but far less costly in men and blood.

I don't think anyone any longer has any illusion that Russia is not determined this shall be a Communist world or that the Russian leaders may have once thought that but have changed their minds.

The final victory, a Communist world, is the Russian goal. If blocked from military conquest, by a fully-armed non-Communist world, the Russians can afford to wait if they can win from the inside by the work of the local Communists, working for Moscow.

Wreck

to get the body of one man," he reported.

A. F. Denham of Detroit was riding with his wife in a compartment of the City of San Francisco. Denham's wife suffered a bruised leg. Denham, not hurt, said "there was not a lot of screaming. It was rather quiet for such a terrible wreck."

A freight train, standing on a spur beside the main line when the crash occurred, was jounced by the collision. Several of its cars overturned.

A rush call went out to Evanston and Ogden for cutting torches to slice into the twisted metal and free the trapped injured, dead or dying. Later Diesel oil began to leak, and the torches had to be put out and the tedious hacking done with steel saws. All the dead passengers were aboard the City of Los Angeles.

Improvise Morgue

Bodies were taken, as they were retrieved, to an improvised morgue at Evanston city hall. The most seriously injured were taken to Evanston's only hospital, Uinta Memorial. Those suffering minor hurts were treated at the American Legion hall.

A large number of physicians were aboard the two trains, returning from a medical convention in San Francisco. They assisted local doctors in administering to the injured. Dr. Anthony F. Ippolito, prominent orthopedic surgeon was killed in the wreck with his wife. He was a speaker at the American College of Surgeons convention.

Dr. Ippolito was a graduate of Purdue University, and starred as a fullback on their 1937-38-39 teams. He then joined the Chicago Bears professional team and played the 1943 season as a guard.

After the wreck, those who were only slightly hurt, and the curious, who came from miles around, stood awkwardly along the creek which paralleled the tracks and the highway, some 200 yards away. They were shocked: their descriptions of the scene vivid.

Ivan Eggers, Evanston police chief: "It's just a mass of tangled iron and steel. Cars are off the track all up and down the line. It's the worst accident I've ever seen."

J. F. Floyd of Chicago, a porter and veteran of 30 years of railroading during which he has been involved in four wrecks: "This is the worst one I've ever seen."

Clark Lobb, reporter for the Salt Lake Tribune: "The cars resembled toys. The wreckage was unbelievable."

Sgt. Jack Gridley, chief of staff of the Utah highway patrol: "The worst wreck I've seen in 15 years of law enforcement work."

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(UP)—Led by specialty issues, stocks rose fractionally at the opening today in moderately active dealings.

The rise marked the fourth consecutive session that prices have advanced. A number of issues were bolstered on favorable corporate developments.

In particular, Rock Island responded to a dividend increase. It rose 2⅜ points to 48⅛ on a block of 2,500 shares.

Airline issues, recent features in the market, again stole the spotlight. They were active and higher. American Airlines on 2,500 shares was up ⅛ to 16⅜. Eastern Airlines rose ½ to 25 on 1,100 shares. United Airlines on 4,000 shares was up ¾ to 31½.

Phelps Dodge was a bright spot in its section. It improved 1¼ points to 76¾. Other metals shares firmed.

Annie Rooney — By Darrell McClure

DON'T CRY ANY MORE, HONEY—TRY AND EAT YOUR BREAKFAST—
MY THROAT HURTS-MY HEART ACHES WHEN I THINK I'LL NEVER SEE MY SWEET LITTLE SISTER AGAIN—
BUT YOU WILL SEE HER AGAIN—DADDY WILL FIND HER, AND—
LISTEN! I HEAR THE TRUCK—DADDY IS BACK AGAIN
IT'S A SAD, SWEET GOOD-BYE LETTER FROM ANNIE TELLING US HOW SHE THANKS US AND LOVES US—AND ASKING US TO PLEASE NOT WORRY OR TRY TO FIND HER—
DON'T YA FEEL BAD, ZER

Delivers 35 Million Tons Annually

Iceman Busy Despite Electric Refrigerators

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(AP)—The iceman is still delivering just about as much ice—35 million tons annually—as he did 30 years ago And this, in the face of the sale of four million mechanical refrigerators annually in recent years.

Members of the National Association of Ice Industries, meeting this week in Houston, Texas, say they have found new customers in industry to replace the ones they lost in the homes.

They add they have been able to keep some of the old customers by new methods, new equipment and new services. The association says there are more than 10 million ice boxes still in use in the homes And more than 6,000 ice companies serve the nation

The ice men's meeting in Texas follows by one week the Chicago meeting of their rivals—the all-industry refrigeration and air conditioning exposition with the latest in mechanical freezing and cooling

But the ice man is not downhearted. His association reports it's going after still another big market through "hydro-cooling" of produce, developed by research it sponsored. Thousands of tons of ice will be needed, the association predicts.

HYDRO-COOLING means plunging sweet corn, cherries, celery, lettuce, peaches, beans and other produce into an ice water bath immediately after harvesting to remove the field heat and arrest maturity This improves the condition of the fruit and vegetables, says the association. It is also trying to induce more food stores to display produce on ice beds, to keep them at their freshest.

About a third of the ice produced each year goes into railroad refrigeration cars and many refrigerated trucks The seafood industry uses some six million tons a year for this highly perishable food.

Ice also plays a part in the manufacture of many articles. The association lists chocolate, cigars, ice cream, liquors, drugs, varnish, hats, explosives, sausage, film and glue

THE ICEMAN got quite a jolt thirty years ago, when the mechanical refrigerator began to sell in volume Some ice companies were rocked back on their heels. But others set out to save their imperiled business

Manufacturers changed the old ice box into a streamlined air-conditioned ice refrigerator, better insulated to use less ice, and draining directly into the plumbing to get rid of the greatest nuisance of all—the drip pan that father always forgot to empty in time

Then the ice companies studied their customers' desires and came up with new methods Trucks were spruced up and ice routemen put into uniform Companies began to supply packages of ice cubes crushed ice, or "sized" ice, as well as cake ice In many cities automatic ice vending machines were set up

The all-time peak of ice sales came in 1930 with 56 million tons

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

The Export of Ideas

Some time ago, grave dissatisfaction was expressed here at the efforts of the Voice of America. I felt then and still feel that the Voice is overly concerned with appeasing—or, at very least, not offending—members of Congress rather than with spreading abroad a message that a Balkan peasant could take to his heart, believe in and fight for.

Privately, some Voice officials concur in this view. "You can't really blame congressmen for the impotence of the Voice of America either," one Voice official said recently. "The fact is the American people don't understand propaganda and are rather resentful of the fact that we're engaged in it. Congress simply reflects this misunderstanding and resentment. Before we can sell an idea to the Europeans we've got to sell the American public on the idea of propaganda."

John Crosby

On the other hand Radio Free Europe, a private outfit which hasn't got Congress breathing down its neck, is approaching the true aim of propaganda, the export of ideas—simple, powerful, and emotional ideas. Robert E. Lang, director of Radio Free Europe, concedes that "Communism gives people a real idea to fight for. Whether it breaks down in actual practice or not — and it does—it's an idea that makes people overreach themselves."

LANG LIKES to quote a statesman from Lebanon on the challenge and meaning of freedom: "A man, no matter how weak or poor or ignorant, will be exceedingly strong and rich and wise if only he has an idea for which he can die, and therefore for which he can live."

Communism, says Lang, does provide such an idea. Our own propagandists haven't. But RFE is about to launch its own battle for men's minds with two idea, both taken from the American revolution. The first is the equality of the individual, the second the federation of European states. "The idea, or religion, we want to preach," says Lang, "to give Communism the final push—

"—and I believe a final push is all it needs—is the fundamental revolution of the American people. You won't do it rationally or logically but with the same fanaticism that brought forth the Declaration of Independence."

Lang likes to point out that the closing words of the Declaration of Independence—"And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortune and our sacred honor"—are about as fanatic as any statement or policy can get. This same flame of emotion must illuminate our propaganda abroad and Lang thinks it will be as forceful in Europe now as it was in America 175 years ago.

THE HUNGARIAN, he says, has no equality under centuries of feudal capitalism, under years of Nazi domination or under the current Communist regime. Equality is an idea "for which he can die and therefore for which he can live." As for the federation of European states, something the Voice of America could hardly advance without incurring the wrath of half the governments of Europe), Lang says its biggest selling point is that such an arrangement will raise everybody's standard of living by eliminating tax barriers.

Here's how RFE sells federation. A waiter in Stamford, Conn., a former Warsaw lawyer, explains on the air that he earns $70 a week, works very hard for it, but his children have oranges all year round. The oranges come from Florida and California, both a long way from Stamford, but he can afford them because there are no tax barriers in America.

The idea of equality, so foreign and yet so inviting to most of Europe, can be reduced to the simplicity of an orange, too. RFE, Lang admits, is just starting its export of those twin ideas, having devoted most of its efforts up to now to licking technical problems. It now has three stations, two on short wave, one on regular broadcast wave, operating in Frankfurt and Munich and is campaigning in the United States for funds to build two more standard wave stations.

THE EFFECTIVENESS of these broadcasts has already been demonstrated. The Czech government has officially protested to the State Department about the RFE broadcasts. Even more convincing was a work stoppage in a Czech factory which was inspired by RFE broadcasts and which, according to the British Foreign Office, came off on schedule. This rather dangerous experiment, Lang says, was conducted simply to find out whether a foreign broadcast could cause any turmoil at all in a Communist-occupied country and RFE was enormously gratified to discover that it could.

Other officers are Mrs. Lester Berry, vice president; Mrs. Clarence Pryor, secretary, and Mrs. George, treasurer and reporter. The nominating committee included Mrs. Clyde Tumbleson and Mrs. Donald Strickland. The group set local goals for Ohio Synodical Society and made pledges to the Presbyterial for the quota for 1952. Christmas boxes were reported sent to Korea, Porto Rico and Tucson, Ariz. Mrs. Castle gave a Thanksgiving reading, and mystery prizes went to Mrs. Robert Blankenship and Mrs. Strickland. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Castle at 395 Lee St. Mrs. Albert Moon assisted in serving.

CHURCH WORSHIP PLANNED

A weekly Intermediate Parent-Teacher-Student worshop was held at Epworth Methodist Church Wednesday night, and another workshop and potluck dinner is arranged at the church Wednesday night this week. Featured were films, "Do You Know Your Adolescent?" for the adults, with discussion following, and for the young people, "Christ Above All." This latter picture was concerning the national Methodist Young Convocation which was held at Cleveland some time ago. Dr. V. E. Busler, pastor, led devotions.

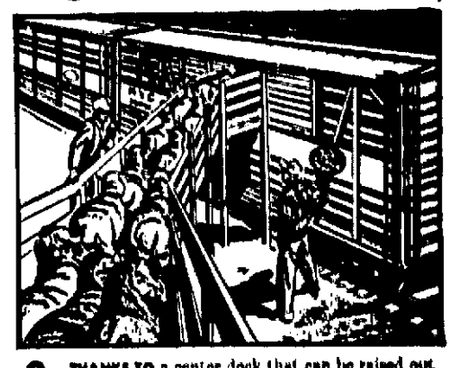
Things you'd like to know about your Railroad

THE CENTRAL IDEA

Thanksgiving Dinner Bargain!

NEW YORK CENTRAL SYSTEM



1. BEST VALUE on your holiday menu is the rail freight that brings foods to your table. New York Central and other roads got only 6¢ to 7¢ of your food dollar. That's less than they got in 1939, when their own expenses—wages, fuel, equipment, supplies—were far lower than today.

2. THANKS TO a center deck that can be raised out of the way, Central's livestock cars offer either headroom for cattle or floor space for sheep and hogs. One car serves where two were needed. It's by such efficiencies that your Railroad can go on handling food at low cost.

3. FASTER FREIGHT trains enable refrigerator cars to cover more miles between icing stops. This new icing station stands halfway between two former stations. It saves one stop. And that means perishable foods get to market hours fresher when they travel New York Central!

4. HAULING MORE tons more miles per train-hour, Central's trains are almost 60% more efficient than those of 20 years ago. Another reason why, despite tremendously increased costs, your Railroad still carries the things you eat, wear and use at a bargain. For that's the CENTRAL IDEA!

Overcome By Fumes In Cockpit

Columbus Pilot Saved In Freak Air Accident

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—(AP)—Navy Lt. J E Pritchett of Columbus, almost overcome by carbon monoxide, flew 100 miles and made a perfect landing Sunday.

Navy officers at Port Columbus said it was one of the oddest air rescues on record.

Fighting to keep awake, Pritchett sluggishly followed hand signals of two flying buddies in letting down from 4,000 feet to the runways at Port Columbus As his plane rolled by, airport attendants saw Pritchett give up and slump into unconsciousness

Doctors gave the pilot oxygen before they pulled him from the cockpit of his husky torpedo plane

Ill in Midflight

Pritchett became ill on a training flight from Columbus to Charleston, W. Va., Cincinnati and back to Columbus He was over Charleston Lts W C Shroyer of Strasburg, O, and R. R. Merritt of Indianapolis, Ind, pulled out of formation to aid Pritchett.

They decided to bring him back to Columbus where he would be more familiar with landing conditions They radioed the Columbus pilot to rock his wings if he was awake enough to hear them. The wings didn't rock Later Pritchett said he "was working so hard to keep awake I didn't answer"

Pritchett climbed from 4,000 to 9,000 feet before Shroyer and Merritt could get him to level off. Then Shroyer led Pritchett while Merritt flew alongside and over the top giving hand signals. That brought them back to 4,000 feet.

Because the nearly unconscious pilot flew erratically, the 100 miles from Charleston to Columbus took 90 minutes to fly. Port Columbus went on emergency and rescue crews stood by.

Wheels Not Down

As Pritchett's plane came out of the northeast, airport attendants nearly had heart failure. His plane's flaps were down but his wheels weren't. Suddenly, the flaps went up and the wheels down. Pritchett says it must have been instinct.

The plane rolled to a stop at the end of the runway. Pritchett's only injury was a banged-up hand, received when he held his arm out the opened canopy in an effort to funnel some breeze to his face.

"I kept thinking about my wife and two children and just had to stay awake and get back all right," said Pritchett afterwards.

He has a wife, Ruth, and two children, John, 3, and Mary Lou, 1. At base hospital, Pritchett's condition was reported not serious.

English-Speaking Lion

THE more or less accidental tip from Key West that Winston Churchill is expected to visit Washington in January has released the pent-up bitterness of the Anglophobes.

It also has been an excuse for Americans resentful of British Socialists to speak their piece, not to mention what it has done to citizens of paying punitive taxes to underwrite Britain's faltering economy.

By the time Mr. Churchill gets here, presumably to ask for more financial aid, everything that American's don't like about Great Britain and about their own situation relative to Great Britain will have been aired. It is unfortunate that the British Lion understands his mother tongue; no slurs will be barred. It will take a beautiful friendship to withstand the onslaught, which will be even more ruthless than the slurs of Britain's America haters to slander the United States.

And when everything has been said—when tempers have been lost and feelings grievously injured—the question will still be what it has been since the United States allied itself with Britain in World War I:

What would be the alternative?

The British are in trouble, very serious trouble. Two wars and adverse circumstances threatening to start a third war have robbed it of more manpower and wealth than it could afford to lose. But Britain is still the only formidable ally the United States retains in a world of chaos.

Psychology of Royalty

ONLY one thing remains to be said about the first visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to North America:

This handsome young couple sustained the best tradition of modern royalty.

The psychology of that tradition never was illustrated more vividly than it was illustrated during the visit of the princess and her husband to Canada and the United States. It is built on the pleasure which human beings receive from being at their best in the presence of someone they want to impress. Even Americans, when the princess and her husband visited this country, derived real pleasure from showing off their capital and their typically American first family, the Trumans.

There is such a thing as letting the symbols of government become too shabby and commonplace for the good of government itself. Whatever the British lack at present, which is a great deal, they have a charming heir-presumptive to their throne.

Absolutism in America

A CLOSING scene of the CIO convention in New York last week found Emil Mazey of United Auto Workers casting Gen. Eisenhower into the outer darkness of presidential politics while the audience cheered. The apparent reason was Eisenhower's inability to meet Mazey's specifications for a presidential candidate. These specifications are significant.

No public figure can win a CIO certificate of approval unless he is willing and eager to swallow the CIO line—all of it, without reservations. One peep against the CIO, one vote against its legislative line, one failure to obey its orders and a potential candidate is barred forever from approval by the thought dictators of this organization. To a lesser degree, the same absolutist tendency is found in the thinking of leaders in other unions.

Even Harry Truman, who has tried, cannot begin to satisfy the demands of the union bosses. No public figure could satisfy their demands without becoming the puppet of a tiny minority.

Contrary Opinion on Defense

A READER old enough in years and experience to know his own mind reports he has no further room for doubt the main aim of the federal government these days. It has exploited America's psychopathic fear of the Communist conspiracy to bring about a war boom in industry and now is the prisoner of the boom's mounting momentum. Everything said by government spokesmen, argues this reader, can be interpreted as some form of mental conditioning for the American people. It has been determined that war is inevitable, and what we are seeing and hearing now is the process of getting people ready to fight it—a process similar to that which preceded World War II.

This contrary opinion on defense is shocking, and it is undoubtedly without foundation, as far as the accusation of deliberate planning is concerned. Otherwise, it is plausible that a country enjoying the economic stimulation of a second war boom in a decade might become the prisoner of its own preoccupation with military preparations, to the extent of rationalizing that war had become inevitable. Or, as Senator Taft put it in a speech at Kansas City last week, unless "indiscriminate defense spending" can be curbed, the country could reach a point where it would face a hard choice between economic collapse and military emergency.

State Dept. Problem

By David Lawrence

Question of Employe Loyalty Undecided

WASHINGTON

SENATOR HENRY CABOT LODGE of Massachusetts is right when he says that confidence in the loyalty of State Department employes will not be fully restored until a bipartisan commission investigates that department's procedures and methods of weeding out loyalty risks.

Mr. Lodge can find backing for his beliefs by a reading of the views of Conrad E. Snow, chairman of the Department of State's loyalty security board. Here is an amazing paragraph from Mr. Snow's public speech:

"Insofar as the administration of the loyalty-security program, by its methods of interrogation, its manner of conducting hearings, its decisions on individual cases, gives support to the public belief that the baseless smears of the demagogue are given effect in the loyalty and security program, it has cooperated in the destruction of freedom of thought and expression."

LAWRENCE

Mr. Snow's attitude toward the present program evidently is that he must given more attention to public reaction than to cases where "baseless smears" could turn out to be justified accusations.

The hearings are held in secret, so nobody knows how the interrogations are carried on. The above paragraph has been interpreted by some government officials to be a veiled criticism of the methods used in departments other than the State Department, where Communists have been found, in contrast with Mr. Snow's assertion that since he took charge in 1947 not a single "present Communist" has been "found" in the State Department.

CHAIRMAN SNOW in a letter to this correspondent takes issue with a recent dispatch analyzing the public speech of Oct. 25. In that dispatch three quotations were reproduced, and in two of them specific mention was made of the fact that they referred to incidents since 1947. As to the other quotation, Mr. Snow says mention should have been made of his previous statement that he was talking only of what has happened since 1947. Yet Mr. Snow says that if Alger Hiss had been in the Department of State under present loyalty board procedures, he wouldn't have been continued in employment a single day after his acts were discovered. It was Mr. Snow who introduced the Hiss case into his public speech. In fact, he was attempting in the same speech to evaluate the harm done by Hiss with reference to classified papers and he gave the clear impression that he was familiar with what Hiss had done prior to 1947. Otherwise, he couldn't make the comparison he did.

THIS, HOWEVER, was not the truly important weakness in Mr. Snow's speech. It was the fact that FBI information doesn't get the consideration in the State Department that it deserves. Mr. Snow in his letter to this correspondent confirms that FBI files do not get to him in all cases. He says:

"If an employe resigns during loyalty investigation and before his case comes to the board, his file is never even seen by the board. If he resigns after the case comes to the board, but before adjudication, the board loses jurisdiction, and the file is withdrawn from the board. If it served any public purpose to discuss publicly individual cases, these files could be examined and statements made regarding the derogatory information contained therein. This would, however, be no part of the function of the loyalty security board, would be contrary to the President's order, and would serve no useful purpose.

"These 40 persons have severed their connection with the department, and their separation was referred to in my speech only to substantiate my statement that there are no known Communists in the department. I do not know that any of the 40 were even alleged to be Communists, and it is unfair to draw conclusions without adjudication. In any event, they have left the department.

"THE FACT of their departure may, however, furnish the answer to your '$64 question'—as to why, 'although in every other important department of the United States government disloyalty cases have been "found",' the State Department loyalty and security board has not found a single case of disloyalty in the department. Of course this fact should not be stated without the accompanying statement that the board has found and recommended dismissal of, 20 'security risks,' as I stated in my speech."

Mr. Snow does not explain why the discovery of 20 "security risks"—admittedly they are differentiated from "disloyalty" cases — should permit readers to draw the conclusion that there have or have not been Communists in the State Department depending on the degree of suspicion created by the words "security risks." Nor does Mr. Snow answer the real objection to the present procedures in the Department of State, which is that a Communist may work in that department nowadays for months, then be investigated by the FBI and, the moment charges are filed with the Loalty Security Board, the employe is permitted to resign no matter how much damage he did during the course of his employment—and nobody on the loyalty board sees the FBI files. He might even get a job in another government department.

Mr. Snow is not qualified to answer this objection perhaps because he admits that he doesn't read the FBI reports unless a formal hearing is held by his board. The unanswered question is what is really done with FBI reports in the State Department and why does the chairman of the Loyalty Security Board insist that not a single Communist has been "found" when apparently he hasn't read, much less investigated, all the FBI reports that have been filed in the Department of State since 1947 when he became chairman of the board.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

DEAR Nephew: Tonight I am a tired old man sitting by the fire, trying to make sense out of a crazy pattern of events.

There is a picture in the paper I have been reading of one of those mushroom-shaped clouds. It represents another atomic explosion in New Mexico. If it has not occurred to anyone else, it certainly has occurred to me to wonder how much these explosions are costing us per broken window in Las Vegas.

I remember when I was a little boy, before the bizzybodies had made all kinds of fun either illegal or moral. I used to buy a pokeful of firecrackers for the Fourth of July. I also had a pocketful of shotgun shells, plus a goodly amount of ammunition for the .32 that we kept for special shooting.

There was no law that compelled me to explode all this stuff, but I never quit until all of it had been shot into tarnation. It occurs to me that someone had better keep an eye on those boom-boom boys out in New Mexico, or there won't be anything left by the fifth of July. They will be shooting off bombs to amuse the kiddies, and one more thing.

They have an excuse for every bomb they explode, just as I could always think of a good reason to fire one more shotgun shell. Maybe I wanted to make sure the gun was still firing—see what I mean? Anyway, I don't trust those boys not to turn childish under the tempting circumstances of being in charge of history's biggest noise.

I think you should know, speaking of explosions, that I finally persuaded your Aunt Effie to use the new pressure cooker last Sunday. I had killed two of the oldest hens in the flock because I couldn't see any percentage in keeping them through another winter. When your aunt started to disassemble them she realized here was a real challenge to pressure cooking.

I don't know how long she cooked them, but I do know I never have eaten more delicious chicken, and I pass along this word to make you feel good. I know you must have been hurt when your aunt turned skittish about that cooker, because you did have good intentions when you gave it to her last Christmas. But she has a few old-fashioned ideas that I can not talk her out of, including the one about husbands helping with the dishes, which is why she is going to get an automatic dishwasher this Christmas.

Christmas? This year? What am I saying? Surely it is not time to start talking about Christmas. I don't even have the storm windows in. The job was started in plenty of time, I thought, but how was I to know that Christmas was going to come right after Labor Day this year? Give our regards to the family and let's not mention Christmas again until this time next month. It scares me.

Daily Bible Thought

Inexperienced people often want things that would be worthless or even injurious. We must learn to reject the bad and choose the best, not just the good. That is budgeting our lives: "Covet earnestly the best gifts."—I Cor. 12:31.

Up Mid the Flak

Competition for Peace

By George E. Sokolsky

FEW MEN have been driven into as awkward a situation by friends and supporters as Gen. Eisenhower. His present work of global defense against communism is so important that anything that interferes with, or hinders that runs counter to his life and apparent ambitions.

But his friends are pushing him too hard. They are forcing upon him alternatives he ought not now, in his present situation, to be made to face, namely that he run as a candidate for the presidency in the Republican party, which he can not do unless he resigns the supreme command of NATO. Eisenhower must make a success of NATO or his career becomes meaningless. It is not good enough to suggest that France and other countries are failing to do their job and that therefore he might abandon NATO. He must build his forces or the American program of relations with Russia and Europe must be entirely revised.

SOKOLSKY

The situation in which Winston Churchill finds himself is that he must restore to Great Britain the trading position in international affairs which the Socialists lost. Churchill will seek a way to peace, which for Great Britain means the role as middleman between the United States and Soviet Russia.

There is no telling what that will do to NATO. Eisenhower may find that he is not the supreme commander of an international army, but the commander of a small American force stationed in the outpost of Western Europe. In that case, his present role would be seriously reduced if not vitiated.

THERE IS A menace in this situation to the United States, namely that Winston Churchill and Harry Truman will enter into a competition for what they will politically call, peace. Programs for disarmament and for peace are always popular, particularly after periods of war and during periods of high taxes due to past wars and in preparation for future wars.

Therefore such a competition between Winston Churchill and Harry Truman in the interest of peace will make considerable headway in both countries. The menace is that such a program may be nothing but an appeasement of Stalin. It may result in a recognition of Stalin's aims in Asia and give him a victor's position with the masses of Europe. To the victor goes the spoils. In Europe, certainly the prestige of victory would go to Stalin.

This may be the only solution for a very difficult situation and it will need study as it proceeds. But this article can deal only with one phase of the problem, namely, the emergence of Churchill as leader of Western Europe and the inevitable reduction of the importance of Eisenhower's position as supreme commander of NATO.

AS THE SITUATION grows increasingly political rather than military, the British premier rather than the American soldier will take first place. The British program of trade rather than the American program of containment will prevail.

President Truman made the error on June 25 of accepting Malik's truce proposal for Korea. He leaped into this picture without even pursuing the normal steps toward a truce. The result was that during the early stages of the Kaesong negotiations, the impression prevailed, particularly in Asia, that the United States was pleading with North Korea and Soviet China for an armistice.

Impetuously commands a price, even if the intention is to find a road to peace and to save human life. The present contest between President Truman and Premier Churchill to find a formula for peace with Stalin, while virtuous in intent, will strengthen Stalin, weaken Eisenhower's efforts to build NATO and may not achieve a better peace than we now have.

THE RUSSIANS favor peace, too. But it is a victor's peace they want. Their program is the present status quo from which they can do more for Russia than a great victory in war. For in the achievement of such a victory by war, Russia would have to destroy the factories and mills and machines that can supply her with needed goods, whereas peace with Churchill will be a tradesman's peace, a buyers' and sellers' peace.

Eisenhower's difficulty is that which every soldier has to face in dealing with politicians who need slogans for re-election. Harry Truman removed General Douglas MacArthur in the hope that that act would end the Korean war. He is now diddling with Eisenhower's NATO to compete with Churchill in presenting a peace program to Stalin.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Company B of the 136th Ohio National Guard was made up of men from Marion County. Organized for 100 days' service in the Civil War, the regiment was mustered, uniformed, equipped and on board a train enroute to Washington on May 13, 1864. It remained on garrison duty during the 100 days and was mustered out Aug. 20, 1864. Captains in the company were James B. Brown and John C. Johnston. Samuel D. Bates and Simon E. DeWolfe served as first lieutenants and J. C. Emery was a second lieutenant. Sergeants were John Cook, Samuel Beerbower, J. R. Harshberger, John Hood, H. S Lucas, C. F. Seffner, Ralph Spring and Ira Uhler.

Congress Quiz

Q—Will the new taxes put the nation on a pay-as-you-go basis?

A—No. In signing the law, President Truman said they "will not raise enough revenue to enable us to keep on paying as we go for our defenses in this emergency period; this is a serious departure from the standards of sound government finance." He did not estimate how much the $5,691,000,000 tax hike fell short. His original request was for $10,000,000,000.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

No Tax on Fishing

Fishing tackle is one of the few things left without a higher tax in the new Federal law tax. As a fisherman we felt pretty good until we gave it second thought and discovered it will cost more than ever to go fishing just the same. It works out this way:

1—You decide to go fishing, but need a pal, so you call Joe Burpee over to the house to make plans. This calls for a highball. The tax on whisky is up.

2—You set the trip for Monday. It dawns beautifully but by the time you've got the car packed a heavy rain starts. You and Joe sit in the car a while waiting for it to clear up. You smoke at least a pack of cigarets on which there is a higher tax. You have another highly taxed drink to cover your disappointment. You set Tuesday for the trip.

3—Tuesday you wake up to find a howling storm. You go to work but at 10 a.m. it turns into a swell fishing day. You meet Joe for lunch. This costs you a couple of drinks to cover your general disgust.

4—Wednesday is okay. You go in your car and the gasoline tax is up.

5—If you needed clams and dug them yourself you strained your back and had to pay more for the alcohol for the alcohol rub.

6—Just before reaching the river your car blows out a tire and the new tube carries a higher tax. You smoke a few more cigarets.

7—The boat livery proprietor raises the rate to $2 from $1.50 because he had to paint the bottom and there's a higher tax on paint.

8—You fish five hours without a bite and have a few cans of beer that cost more, due to the new beer tax.

9—You fish three hours more and finally catch one. It's pretty small, but you celebrate with another drink from a flask on which there was a higher levy.

10—You get home and call a friend to tell him about the "one that smashed all my riggin and musta weighed fifteen pounds." It takes another drink to put you into your best form as a liar.

11—You wake up the next morning with a bad cold. This calls for hot whisky. You stay abed all day, smoking cigarets.

12—You get up and start for the office the third day, but the car won't start. It seems you ran low on oil during the fishing trip and will need a new part which will cost you 20 per cent more, due to new taxes.

13—This brings on a relapse.

14—You call the doctor. He finds you have high blood pressure, a leaky valve, a touch of pneumonia, a fever and a rapid pulse. He says you are too tense. He advises you TO GO FISHING AND CHARGES YOU $10.

SHALL WE DANCE?

Don't make that Commie's ball too high;
To him quite gentle be;
He merely is our constant foe
And mortal enemy!

Avoid a bond that's hard to get—
It would not be fair play,
For bars impede him as he plots
To wreck the U.S.A.

Social Affairs

A TEA given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. William Hoover Brown and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. George King Brown, at the former's home at 640 Vernon Heights Blvd. was for the pleasure of Mrs. David Hoover Brown, a bride of this summer. Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Brown was Miss Ann Gifford.

From 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, approximately 100 guests were received. An arrangement of chrysanthemums in a light lavender shade and lighted yellow candles formed the centerpiece for the table from which refreshments were served. Candlelight predominated throughout the room and pastel shades were carried out in other decorations.

Assisting the hostesses during the afternoon were Miss Janet Gifford, sister of the honored guest, Miss Sue Smith, Miss Susan Courtright, Miss Diane Umbaugh, Miss Ann Probst, Mrs. John P. Courtright Jr., Miss Barbara McDonald, Miss Patricia Smoot, Mrs. Obal H. Gearhiser Jr., Miss Isabelle Sycks, Mrs. Rex Kilbourn, Mrs. E. G. Siefert, Mrs. Roxie Smith, Mrs. Edgar Barnhart, Mrs. Ray King, Mrs. David J. Isaly and Mrs. Harold Harmon.

Guests from out of town included Mrs. Dale Thibaut of Columbus, Mrs. Arthur Harris of Springfield, and Mrs. Larry Jones of Youngstown.

A film entitled "Human Growth" highlighted the meeting of the Child Study Club Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Donald Patton with Mrs. Robert Morrison as assistant hostess. Mrs. Lois Ansley was moderator for the film.

Mrs. Lloyd Calhoun was enrolled as a new member. Mrs. William Stonebraker and Mrs. Donald Schlientz, president and vice president respectively, reported on the Child Conservation League state convention held in Dayton last month.

Special award was won by Mrs. William McConnell, a guest. Samples of jewelry which the group plans to make at the December meeting were shown.

Mrs. Darrell Trowbridge and Mrs. Gertrude Orians entertained with a kitchen shower recently at their home at 560 E. Farming St. for the pleasure of Mrs. James Wilson, a recent bride.

As entertainment during the evening, a mock wedding was presented, with little Miss Nancy Koch as the bride, Ray Butler as the bridegroom, Miss Loretta Thomas as the bridesmaid, and with Tommy Thomas acting as the minister. Honors in games and contests were won by Mrs. James Postell and Mrs. George Butler.

The honored guest found her gifts in a decorated wagon.

Guests included Mrs. Russell Gorrell, Mrs. Grace Felty, Mrs. Herman Berry, Mrs. Robert Koch, Mrs. Arwin Berry, Phyllis Felty, Lois Smith and Martha Koch.

A potluck supper was held by the Family Life Study Club Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Allen Fulton at 406 Cherry St. Mrs. Kenneth Collins conducted devotions, and each member responded to roll call by telling how she met her husband. Mrs. Al Baker was a guest.

Plans were made to fill baskets for needy families for Thanksgiving and Christmas. A letter of resignation from Mrs. Thomas Morgan was read and accepted. It was decided to have a handkerchief shower for each member when she celebrates a birthday anniversary, and each member gave a penny for each year of her age for a special fund.

For the program, each member presented five minutes of entertainment. For a Christmas exchange, to be held at the next meeting at the home of Mrs. Collins at 305 Park St., each member is to give something she has made.

Reports of many service and good-will projects accomplished in the past several weeks were given when members of the O. R. W. Club met Thursday evening, Nov. 8, with Mrs. Ivan Spires of 466 Davids St. A potluck supper preceded the meeting.

Mrs. Carroll Pickering reported nine baskets had been sent to shut-in persons, five families were furnished with used clothing, and 43 cards were sent to sick persons in the last two weeks. Mrs. Pickering is chairman of the committee in charge of distributing clothing. Any persons wishing to give clothing to the club to be distributed to needy persons can contact Mrs. Pickering. Plans were made to fill a basket for a needy family for Thanksgiving.

Names were exchanged for secret sisters. On Nov. 19, Mrs. Arlene Horne will entertain the club at the home of Mrs. Dovie Blankenship of 632 Herman St. Guests were Mrs. John Turner and Mrs. Clarence Chaney.

The Women's Century Club will meet Tuesday night at 8 p. m. with Mrs. Ray R. King of 351 East Church St.

Delaware County Couple To Mark Golden Wedding

A Delaware County couple, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Dunbar of the Tawa road, Thompson Township, will observe their golden wedding anniversary Nov. 20. On Sunday, Nov. 18, in celebration of the event, a family dinner will be held at noon followed by open house from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and 7 to 9 in the evening.

The bride of 50 years ago was Miss Atha Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Davis of the Tawa road. She and Mr. Dunbar, whose parents were Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dunbar of the Dunbar road, northeast of Prospect, were married Nov. 20, 1901, by Rev. Stevens of Radnor. Except for a period of two and one-half years, they have spent all their married life on the farm where they now live.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar are parents of two children, Mrs. Fern Tennant of the Tawa road, and Norman Dunbar of near Richwood. They also have two granddaughters and four great granddaughters. Mrs. Dunbar has a brother, William Davis of Delaware, and Mr. Dunbar has a brother, John Dunbar of near Marion, and a sister, Mrs. Nora Landon of Prospect.

Pork, Apple Casserole Cold Weather Treat

THAT "apple a day" can go a long way toward appeasing hearty appetites on nippy November days when it shares starring honors with pork in a casserole. All that's needed to round out the menu is a green salad, or even simpler, a bowl of celery and raw carrot sticks and you have a meal that's simplicity itself.

PORK AND APPLE CASSEROLE

2 lbs. pork shoulder
3 large onions
2 T fat or salad oil
1 cup water
1 can condensed consomme
½ cup flour
2½ cups sliced apples
Few grains cinnamon
2 cups hot seasoned mashed potatoes

Cut pork in 1½-inch cubes. Slice onions; brown with pork in fat or salad oil. Place in casserole. Blend water and consomme with flour; cook slowly, stirring constantly, until thickened. Pour over pork; cover, bake in moderate oven, 350 F., 1 hour. Drain liquid from apples. Sprinkle apples with cinnamon; add to pork. Cover; bake 30-45 minutes or until pork is tender. Edge casserole with seasoned mashed potatoes; bake until browned. Yields 6 servings.

Weddings

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Cpl. Ora A. Childers of Marion and Miss Nancy L. Schell of Dayton, Sunday, Nov. 4, in the Belmont EUB Church at Dayton.

Cpl. Childers is the son of Mrs. Richard L. Wise of 360 Silver St., and Tipper Childers of 598 Herman St. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Anna C. Schell of Dayton.

Attending the bride were Miss Nancy Witters of Dayton, maid of honor, and Mrs. Harold Mowry of Lakeview, matron of honor. Robert Murphy of Caledonia served as best man, and Joseph Fish of Dayton, as usher.

After a wedding trip to Columbus, the couple left for San Antonio, Tex., where the bridegroom is stationed.

Marriage of Richwood Couple Announced

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD — Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Shirley Livingston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Livingston, and Mr. George Kirby Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kirby of Richwood, Nov. 4 at the home of the bride's parents.

Rev. William Wilcher of Marysville, a former pastor of the Central Methodist Church in Richwood, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families. A reception was held following the ceremony.

The bride and groom are both graduates of Richwood High School. The bride is employed in Marion. The bridegroom was in the service for several years and is now employed in Marion.

Personal Mention

Harry Corwin Sr. and Mrs. Harry Corwin Jr. and children, Betty Jean, Anna Marie and Charles, of Mashwauk, Minn., have returned home after vacationing here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Corwin of 348 S. Prospect St., and also at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Corwin

Today's Fashion Flash

NEW YORK

THERE'LL be a rustic revival in fashions for spring.

Advance tipsters on style say clothes will look positively "woodsy" in their weave.

The fabrics—whether they're silk, woolen or cotton—will be woven like homespuns. They will frequently have nubby or shaggy surfaces, or curled persian lamb-like naps.

Though designers aren't yet revealing the names of some of the new materials, they promise that they will have a miraculous lightweight quality despite their rugged appearance.

They will also be more practical. Even some woolens will be washable next season.

To give the "rustics" their elegant look, linings of coats and suits will be more luxurious than ever. Some designers will even line their home-spun-ish modes in gauzy chiffon.

Marion Garden Center Notes

TULIPS

November is the month for planting tulips. Pick your bulbs now to make the longest and brightest display next spring. Your show can start in April and last through until the end of May, and by providing the right varieties you can make a few tulips look prettier than several hundred set down without imagination in one bulky bed. By planting in clumps you will get a much better color effect from fewer bulbs. Use uneven numbers and uneven spacing for informality—never plant bulbs in a straight row.

It is what you plant in front of, behind and beside your tulips that counts. Flowering shrubs, evergreens, and deciduous hedges just pushing out into fresh new growth make the prettiest backgrounds. Some perennials, such as peonies or Bleeding Hearts, are tall enough by May to back up tulips wonderfully. Use your imagination and see what a gorgeous tulip show you can plan.

Broken Neck Causes Death of Horse

Special to The Star

GALION—"Painted Chief," the 14-year-old spotted Western horse that made news in 1941 when it carried its owner to the west coast, has died of a broken neck.

The bay with white spots was owned by Virginia Shumaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Shumaker of Galion. She rode the horse across the country to the west coast in 1941, and in 1942 to New York, Washington, and the east coast. It is believed that the horse broke its neck early Saturday morning when it tried to turn around in the stall where it was tied.

SWAP JOBS

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(UP)—A newspaperman and a minister exchanged jobs for one day. Richard H. Amberg, general manager of the Syracuse Post-Standard, delivered a sermon at the Delaware Street Baptist Church while the Rev. Dr. Calvin M. Thompson, Jr., wrote an editorial for Amberg's paper.

Observes Annual Book Week

Marion Public Library Features Unusual Collection of New Books

The Marion Public Library is observing the 33rd annual Book Week this week.

The theme, "New Horizons with Books" is dramatized by a full color poster, designed by Marcia Brown, author and illustrator of children's books. The poster is selected by means of a contest held each year after the theme has been announced.

There is an unusual collection of new books in each age group. The outstanding books were listed as follows by the library:

Picture Books

Among the best of the picture books is this year's "Bird in the Hand," a unique pictorial story book about Benjamin Franklin and his "Poor Richard's Almanac," "Little Fur Family" by Margaret Wise Brown, and "Little Leo" by the author-illustrator, Leo Politi, a story based on an incident in the artist's own childhood. "Finders Keepers" by William Lipkind is a combination of story and pictures that have strength, life and humor.

"Feather Mountain" by Elizabeth Olds is based on the Iroquois legend of how the birds got their feathers. Katherine Milhous's new book "Patrick and the Golden Slippers" tells of the Mummers' Parade which has taken place in Philadelphia every New Year's Day since the time of George Washington. It is a worthy successor to the Caldecott Medal book, "The Egg Tree," which was awarded to Miss Milhous for the most distinguished picture-book for children. "Fox Eyes" by Margaret Brown has been printed in unusual shades of red, green and black. The story is unusual too, with a surprise ending that both children and adults will enjoy.

Regional Stories

"Hungry Hollow" by Anna Rose Wright and "Trouble on Old Smoky" by Catherine Blanton, two stories of the Smoky Mountains, give sympathetic pictures of the restrictions and the freedom of mountain life. Thelma Harrington Bell has returned to the Carolina Mountains for the scene of "Yaller-Eye," her new book. The wheat country is the subject for Lois Lenski's most recent regional story, "Prairie School," a study of the Dakota plains. "Just Like David" by Marguerite DeAngeli is a family story with a Pennsylvania Dutch background. "All-of-a-Kind Family" by Sidney Taylor is a happy, human, satisfying story of family life in a four-room flat in New York's lower East Side. Completely different from all of the other books in this group in format and presentation is Holling C. Holling's, "Minn of the Mississippi." Minn, a snapping three-legged turtle, was born at the head waters of the Mississippi and was pushed along the length of the river from near Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

Land of the Free Series

Two new titles in the series are "The Beckoning Hills" by Joseph Gage, a story of the Italians in California, and "Seek the Dark Gold" by Jo Evalin Lundy, which dramatizes the Scots' contribution to New World civilization.

Biographies

There is a varied collection of biographies, many of them revealing historical periods and personages. "America's Robert E. Lee" by Henry Commager is one of the year's distinguished books both in text and format and is an authentic picture of the life and career of Lee. "George Washington, Leader of the People" by Clara Ingram Judson is a companion volume to Mrs. Judson's distinguished biography of "Abraham Lincoln, Friend of the People". A Satisfactory edition for young people of Cecil Woodham-Smith's life of Florence Nightingale is entitled "Lonely Crusader".

One of the most important and inspiring biographies is Peter Zenger—Fighter for Freedom" by Tom Galt. This is the story of the life of New York's most famous printer and his fight to win freedom of speech and press. The story of William Tell has gained a sense of reality and drama through Conrad and Mary Buff's, "The Apple and the Arrow". Although set in 1291, the moving story of the Swiss struggle for freedom is a timely one for boys and girls today. "Andrew Jackson" by Genevieve Foster is the first complete biography of "the People's President", for children in the middle aged group. Sport fans will welcome "The Jim Thorpe Story" by Gene Schoor: the story of the Carlisle Indian whose record, as an all-around athlete, has never been matched in baseball, football, field and track.

Newbery Medal Book

The Newbery Medal is bestowed annually by the American Library Association for the most distinguished contribution to American Literature for children. This year, the book receiving the award is "Amos Fortune" by Elizabeth Yates. Amos Fortune is the dramatic tale of a man, born in Africa, captured and sold as a slave in Boston, who later, through hard work and faithful service, earned enough money to purchase his own freedom and that of several other Negroes. It is a true story, reflecting the dignity and worth of an individual.

Far-Away Places

There are a number of titles which will help young people to better understand their neighbors in other parts of the world. Frances Winwar's, "The Land and People of Italy" is an important addition to the "Portraits of the Nations Series." Modern India is the setting for Chester Bryant's "The Lost Kingdom."

Factual Books

"The Nature Dictionary" by John H. Melady: This large volume is a combination reference work and picture book. Discussed and described are representative birds, animals, fish, insects, flowers, trees and butterflies. "Birthdays of Freedom" by Genevieve Foster is a picture story of the growth of freedom through the world and is one of three special books that will celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the American Library Association. "The Story of the Totem Pole" by Ruth Brindze is an exciting tale of Indians who carved their legends and remarkable adventures on giant red cedars. This is a beautiful original book which tells of the origin of the totem pole, its uses and how to "read," its strange and colorful decorations. "An Introduction to Art for Young People" by Alice Elizabeth Chase is one of the outstanding juvenile publications. The paintings are interestingly grouped by subject matter. "Aircraft, U.S.A." by Harriet E Huntington is a book of modern military aircraft for any age. Each page of this timely picture book is illustrated with actual photographs of the best in contemporary planes.

This year, more than ever, there is an outstanding group of historical novels, lively biographies, an exceptional list of horse and dog stories, exciting adventures and mysteries and several good sport stories.

During 1951, The American Library Association, of which the Marion Public Library is a member, is celebrating its 75th anniversary. The theme for this anniversary celebration is "Our American Heritage." This theme will augment the purpose of Book Week which is to promote more year round reading.

TAKES OVER OFFICE. Doctor Roberto Arbalaez holds the staff of authority in his hand just after he had taken the oath of office in Bogota as Interim President of Colombia. He will retain the post during the illness of President Gomez.

Officers Named By OES at LaRue

LA RUE, Nov. 13—Officers for the coming year were elected when Mary Lenox, No. 98, OES, met Tuesday night. Worthy Matron Janet Swartz gave her report on Grand Chapter held recently in Columbus.

Mrs. Arthur Miller was chosen worthy matron for the coming year with Arthur Miller, worthy patron. Other officers elected were associate matron, Mrs. Paul Sager; associate patron, Earl Ballinger; conductress, Mrs. William Stanbro; associate conductress, Mrs. J. Lewis Hafer; secretary, Mrs. Albert Amstutz; treasurer, Mrs. Harold Robinson, and trustee, Lowell Swartz. Installation of officers will be held at the Masonic hall Dec. 4, the worthy matron-elect announced.

Meeting Set On Dutch Elm Disease

A meeting of Marion residents interested in curbing the Dutch Elm disease and elm phloem necrosis, two diseases which have been killing elm trees in Marion, will be held Thursday at Edison Junior High School at 8 p.m.

Cody Hartman, Marion tree surgeon, and Safety-Service Director Ralph Forrest are cooperating in presenting the program.

Featured speaker will be Frank G. Mead of the Columbus Beechwold Station of the Division of Forest Insects. The division is a part of the Federal Bureau of Experimental Plant Quarantine. He will also show movies of the various stages of the Dutch Elm disease and how to control it.

A display will be placed in the Marion County Bank window Tuesday showing actual diseased twigs and photographic exhibit of the beetles which transmit the diseases and how they work, Hartman said.

Television started regular program service in the East 12 years ago.
